STARTLING ALLEGATIONS AGAINST BRITAIN IN FRENCH PRESS

Mr. Wang Ching-wei, President of the Executive Yuan, whose life was attempted by an assassin on Friday morning, is progressing satisfactorily. He is seen above in one of the latest photographs to be taken of him.

SOUTH-WEST INFLUENCE TO BE INCREASED? MANY CHANGES RUMOURED

NANKING OUTRAGE THOUGHT PURELY POLITICAL

(From Our Own Correspondent)

Canton, Yesterday.

The attempt on the life of Mr. Wang Ching-wei, President of the Executive Yuan in Nanking, will bring about big changes in the internal situation affecting Sino-Japanese relations, in the opinion of well-informed circles here. It is held that the attempted assassination is purely political, although the exact motive will not be known for some time.

The six Kuomintang committee members from Canton have a resolution impeaching Mr. Wang for his misfeasance in office, but the resolution has been withdrawn following the shooting.

Even if Mr. Wang survives the attack, he will not be able to continue his high offices. He may succumb to his wounds, owing to the fact that he is not in the best of health.

Mr. Hu Han-min is likely to become the next President of the Executive Yuan and will return to Nanking from France. Mr. Hu was mentioned as the candidate three months ago when Mr. Wang sent in his resignation, but the latter resumed office later.

When Mr. Hu takes over the reins of office, many of his close supporters in Canton will become Cabinet Ministers.

Gloomy Political Outlook

Tokyo, yesterday.—The consensus of opinion in the Japanese press is that the Nanking tragedy makes the future outlook of the Chinese political situation and the Sino-Japanese relations gloomy.

It is generally thought that the attack is due to discontent with Mr. Wang Ching-wei's pro-Japan policy. His removal, temporarily or otherwise, from office will necessitate fundamental changes in Nanking, with the strengthening of the so-called pro-Western clique.

The Nichi-Nichi comments that it is clear that the anti-Japanese sentiment lurking in Nanking is utterly opposed to Mr. Wang's pro-Japanese policy, and forecasts

'TIMES' PAYS TRIBUTE TO WANG CHING-WEI CONSTRUCTIVE FORCE IN GOVERNMENT NEW BLOW TO SINO-JAPANESE UNDERSTANDING

London, Yesterday.

The attempt on the life of Mr. Wang Ching-wei is given prominence in the morning papers. The diplomatic correspondent of the "Morning Post" says that it is regarded in London as being of considerable significance.

If the motive, as appears probable, was the hostility of the Chinese Nationalists towards the supposedly pro-Japanese tendency of the Government, it may be the prelude to a new period of unrest.

Referring to the rumours that a new encroachment by Japan on Chinese territory is impending, the Morning Post says that in the present instance there is no evidence that Japan is planning a new political offensive in North China or intends to advance her troops to the south, but the possibility of such developments cannot be excluded.

The Japanese army chiefs know that the Powers are pre-occupied with other affairs and may consider the moment ripe for consolidating the Japanese position in the northern provinces. The military occupation of them would give Japan control of North China practically down to the Yellow River and create a serious situation for British interests.

WANG BELIEVED OUT OF DANGER: WIFE CONFIDENT

CONFERENCE RESUMED

RINGLEADER OF ASSASSINS QUESTIONED

Nanking, Yesterday.

It was officially announced at 10 a.m. to-day that Mr. Wang Ching-wei's condition is satisfactory.—Reuter.

WIFE'S CONFIDENCE

Nanking, later: A bulletin issued this morning stated that Mr. Wang Ching-wei passed a comfortable night and his condition was satisfactory.

His wife is convinced that he will not die. "If he was destined to die in the cause of the Chinese revolution," she said, "he would have died 27 years ago when he went to Peking to kill the Prince Regent and was arrested himself." (Madame Wang accompanied Mr. Wang on that abortive mission, which so nearly cost his life.)

Meanwhile the conference so rudely interrupted yesterday was resumed this morning, an extra heavy guard protecting the delegates.

WOULD-BE ASSASSIN DIES IN HOSPITAL

Nanking, Yesterday.

The would-be assassin of Mr. Wang Ching-wei, Sun Fong-min, succumbed to his injuries at 3.45 p.m. to-day. An inquest was subsequently held, at which the coroner returned a verdict that the deceased had died of bullet wounds.

The body was turned over to the police for burial.—Reuter.

VIOLENT ANTI-BRITISH SCENES IN ITALY TOURISTS LEAVE IN PANIC

Rome, Yesterday.

The violent anti-British storm raging throughout Italy swept away overnight all the names of hotels, stores and restaurants here which had an English flavour, one of the victims being the well-known Eden Hotel.

HSIAO URGES CO-OPERATION BY AMERICA

U.S. SILVER POLICY DEPLORED

APPEAL TO MR. DERN

(From Our Own Correspondent)

Canton, Yesterday.

It was disclosed to-day that during the visit here of Mr. George H. Dern, United States Secretary of War, Mr. Hsiao Fu-chien, one of the elder statesmen here, urged him to convey to his Government the desirability of Sino-American co-operation. Secretary Dern was favourably impressed by Mr. Hsiao's plea and promised to transmit the message to President Roosevelt upon his return to the United States.

Mr. Hsiao also implored the cancellation of the American silver policy as detrimental to China, and more, to American investments in this country. Mr. Dern was informed that China buys more from the United States than any other foreign country.

NEW DEFENCE PLAN IN MEDITERRANEAN ARSENALS REPLENISHED RESERVES CALLED UP FRANCE TO ENQUIRE REASONS

"SUNDAY HERALD" SPECIAL

Paris, Yesterday.

That the diplomatic discussions at Geneva led to no tangible results yesterday and offered no prospects whatsoever for finding a basis for a peaceable settlement of the Ethiopian conflict appears to be the unanimous opinion of the Paris press to-day.

Yesterday's most important developments at Geneva were, according to the correspondents, that the peace proposals drawn up by the French and British experts in the joint conference in Paris have been rejected by the British Government as well as by Baron Aloisi, and that England's refusal to withdraw naval units from the Mediterranean has resulted in a marked increase in the Anglo-Italian tension.

The correspondent of the Petit Journal states that the chief results of yesterday's discussions were a number of demonstrations, particular importance attaching to the denial that any divergencies of opinion exist between France and England concerning the application of sanctions or the continuation of the diplomatic efforts for a peaceful solution.

This result, so the paper adds, is somewhat disappointing, in view of the high hopes with which public opinion had looked forward to this "momentous meeting at Geneva," attended by two British Ministers and the French Premier.

A considerable section of the press sharply criticises the British attitude and insinuates that the British policy at Geneva is largely influenced by electoral considerations. Some papers express the opinion that it will be easier to reach agreement after the British elections.

The foreign political editor of L'Ouvre asserts that the British Ministers, after rejecting the peace proposals submitted by the British.

SANCTIONS DATE FIXED FOR NEXT MONDAY

Geneva, Yesterday.

The enforcement of sanctions has been fixed for Monday, November 18.—Reuter.

British and French experts, suggested that Abyssinia should be requested to state which territories she was willing to cede to Italy in exchange for being granted access to the Red Sea in Eritrea. Britain insists, however, according to the paper, that in all other respects the eventual settlement must be based on the report of the Committee of Five, which provides for a sort of League of Nations mandate for the cultural development of Ethiopia.

STARTLING ALLEGATION

The London correspondent of the Echo de Paris asserts that the British Admiralty, far from intending to withdraw any ships from the Mediterranean, is now making further extraordinary preparations of a far-reaching nature and on a large scale. According to the correspondent, British naval reserves are being called up, old warships are being placed in service, naval bases are being created in the Eastern Mediterranean, arsenals are being replenished, and negotiations are being carried on with Spain.

The French Government, so the correspondent affirms, intends to enquire the reasons for these measures and to remind the British Government that French support can only be given within the framework of the League of Nations, with a view to the peaceful settlement of the conflict.—Trans-Ocean Service.

ITALIAN ADVANCE CHECKED

Retreat Reported At Dawa River

RAS DESTA'S FORCES IN ACTION

"SUNDAY HERALD" SPECIAL

Addis Ababa, Yesterday.

According to reports received here from the southern front, the Italians at the Dawa River have been forced to retire under the pressure of irregular Abyssinian forces commanded by Ras Desta. On the right wing the Italians advancing from Ual Ual are said to have made no progress during the last few days.

Troops moving forward along the Webbe Shibel River, on the other hand, are admitted to have covered a great deal of ground on the way towards Gorahat. Throughout the province of Ogaden rainfall has again started, and the Italian transport difficulties have been therefore considerably increased.

FIVE KILLED IN BATTLE

Rome: Altogether five Italians fell in battle between October 1 and 31, according to the official casualty list published by the Italian press. It is added that this number does not include the losses of native troops, which will not be listed.

During the last 10 months 193 soldiers and 109 workmen occupied in Africa died from disease or accident, and of these 10 workmen died since the beginning of the war.

MAKALLE NOT OCCUPIED

Addis Ababa: The Ethiopian Government has officially denied the report that Makalle is occupied by the Italians.

SWEDISH RED CROSS

Paris: A Swedish Red Cross delegation left Marseilles for Djibouti yesterday by the steamer Athos II. Eleven members will go first to Harar and thence to different points on the Abyssinian front. They carry a large quantity of first-aid necessities, including four Red Cross waggonettes.—Trans-Ocean Service.

By MICHAEL KENT

LONG Hatton sat by the roadside looking over his estate—a pair of socks, an undercoat, bread, biscuits in a paper bag, and a pair of shoes which would be fine if they had better uppers to clump some new soles on.

"See how it is, Micko, old pal," he apologized. "Peas and fruit is done. Hoppin's done. So I got to work the pike. It's too plucky chancey, mate! Where I got to do there's neither room nor rations for a 11' dawg like you."

Mick, who had large, appealing, brown eyes and a vigorous, stumpy tail, was the great-grandson of a stray spaniel. He was a proud dog. Few dogs had a man like his man.

Long threw his jacket over the little dog's head.

Mick knew that was the start of the "seek-a-bisc" ritual.

Long hid bits of sweet biscuits here and there by the roadside, then he took the coat off Mick's head.

"Seek-a-bisc, Mick," said he. "You won't get many more chances. I got to seek-a-bisc myself soon."

Mick quickly and cleverly sniffed out all the scraps. Then Long put one last bit on his hat brim.

"Seek-a-bisc, find-a-bisc, you old rough stuff. One, two, three."

At "one," Mick leapt to the bent thigh, at "two" he had lodged in Long's forearm, at "three," squatting on the shoulder beside the lean, grey face, his tongue snaked out to the hat brim.

"And that, you blinking old tyke, concludes the 'entertainment,'" said Long, but it wasn't Mick who was blinking.

"Does it really?" asked a voice. A little thin man, in gaiters, riding breeches, and a flat-topped hat, had been watching them.

Long flicked his hat brim. "Having a game with my 11' dawg, sir."

"Evidently," said the stranger, pointing his stick sharply at Long. "Is it to be taken that you wish to sell him?"

"Things being as they are, there's nothing else to do," said Long. "If I was in a regular job now..."

"I see," said the little man. "Now my house is in those trees."

If you will follow me I think we can come to terms."

A drive winding through fir trees and shrubs brought them to the door. The little man left them in a wide hall; Mickie sniffed and whined.

A grave man like a convalescent undertaker came and asked if he were waiting for Sir Lucien?

"Him as went through," explained Long.

"Sir Lucien Attwood, Judge," said the undertaker loftily.

"My word, you'll be among the nobs, Micko," whispered Long. A moment later Sir Lucien's voice was heard.

"I consider," said the judge, gazing at Long as if he were debating the length of sentence, "I consider 7s. 6d. a fair price for that animal. I take into account, however, sentimental value, I'm—H'm—30 shillings?"

"Your Worship," said Long, "I never reckoned..."

"Two pounds," said Sir Lucien with finality. "Kindly sign this receipt."

Long Hatton set his name on the dotted line—and felt ashamed. Going down the dark and winding drive Long blundered into a tree.

"Plucky old flea bag," he said. "He'll be all right."

Mick did not behave like a gentleman. People were kind, but stupid. He didn't want to stay. The smells were all wrong and his man was gone. He passed through anger to hysteria, finally finding himself in a dark place smelling of oil, grass, and men's hands. There was a rat-hole in one corner and high up, a square of grey light. He wept. Then something flickered from the dark roof to that square of grey and passed through. It was a bat. Mick did not know that, but he knew that the square meant freedom and his man.

Shortly after dinner Pettigrew knocked at the door of his master's study.

"If you please, Sir Lucien, the dog's been stolen."

"Stolen?" said the judge. "I'll go down to the station myself. The police will soon have that rogue laid by the heels."

The local sergeant quickly got track of the miscreant, who had been seen asking for work. He would doubtless tramp on to the Public Institution at Fourmile, copied the sergeant.

"I'll have my hands on him before morning, Sir Lucien."

There the policeman was in error, though Long Hatton had been making for Fourmile when he met a fellow-voyager.

"How goes it, mate?" asked this adventurer in a wheezy whine.

"Mouldy," said Long. "You lookin' for a job too?"

The man's clothes were not worn, but creased as if they had been a long time laid away. He was a big fellow, his hair was short, and his face white.

"You might make a worse guess," said he. "Just out of hospital."

"That's tough, mate," he sympathized. "Maybe someone'll give me a hand," said the stranger. "Know the names of any posh folk around here?"

"A judge lives at the big house on the hill," said Long. "Sir Lucy something."

"Sir Lucien Attwood?" "That's right," said Long. "Comin' my way, mate?"

"No," retorted the stranger. "I'm all tore out. Hospital, you see."

That smote Long with remorse—a poor covey with a face like a plate of porridge, and himself with two pound notes.

"Best get something down your neck, mate," he said. "Here's a sprarsy." Sixpence change hands. "Do with some biscuits? I don't want these no more."

Never again would he and Mick play "Seek-a-bisc."

"Thanks, cully," said the stranger, looking at a hedge stake. "Blimey, mate, wouldn't that make a proper coss!"

It nibbled at the biscuits as Long walked on.

Long was toiling sadly up the hill when a sound like wind in anail-cloth made him turn.

Mick!

He came full stretch, with red tongue lolling, and hurled himself at Long.

Long gathered him into his arms and felt the madly beating heart. "Easy, easy, old pal, we're all right."

Gosh! What a dog could mean to a man! Two pounds for that! Two pounds? What to do about it? Honesty: apart, it wouldn't do to get a blinking beak on your track.

"Hoof it back," he decided. "And give him his money."

So they hoofed it bright and easy, and the miles seemed short. Dark, though, Long wouldn't have found Sir Lucien's gate but for the lamp and the old fire-and-blow himself, hard hat and all, turning in ahead.

Inside, Long heard a wheezy voice call, "Help!"

"Who's there?" demanded the judge.

A vicious swish in the bushes followed, the wheezy voice chuckling.

"Now, Justice blinking Attwood, squeak, and I'll push your face in!"

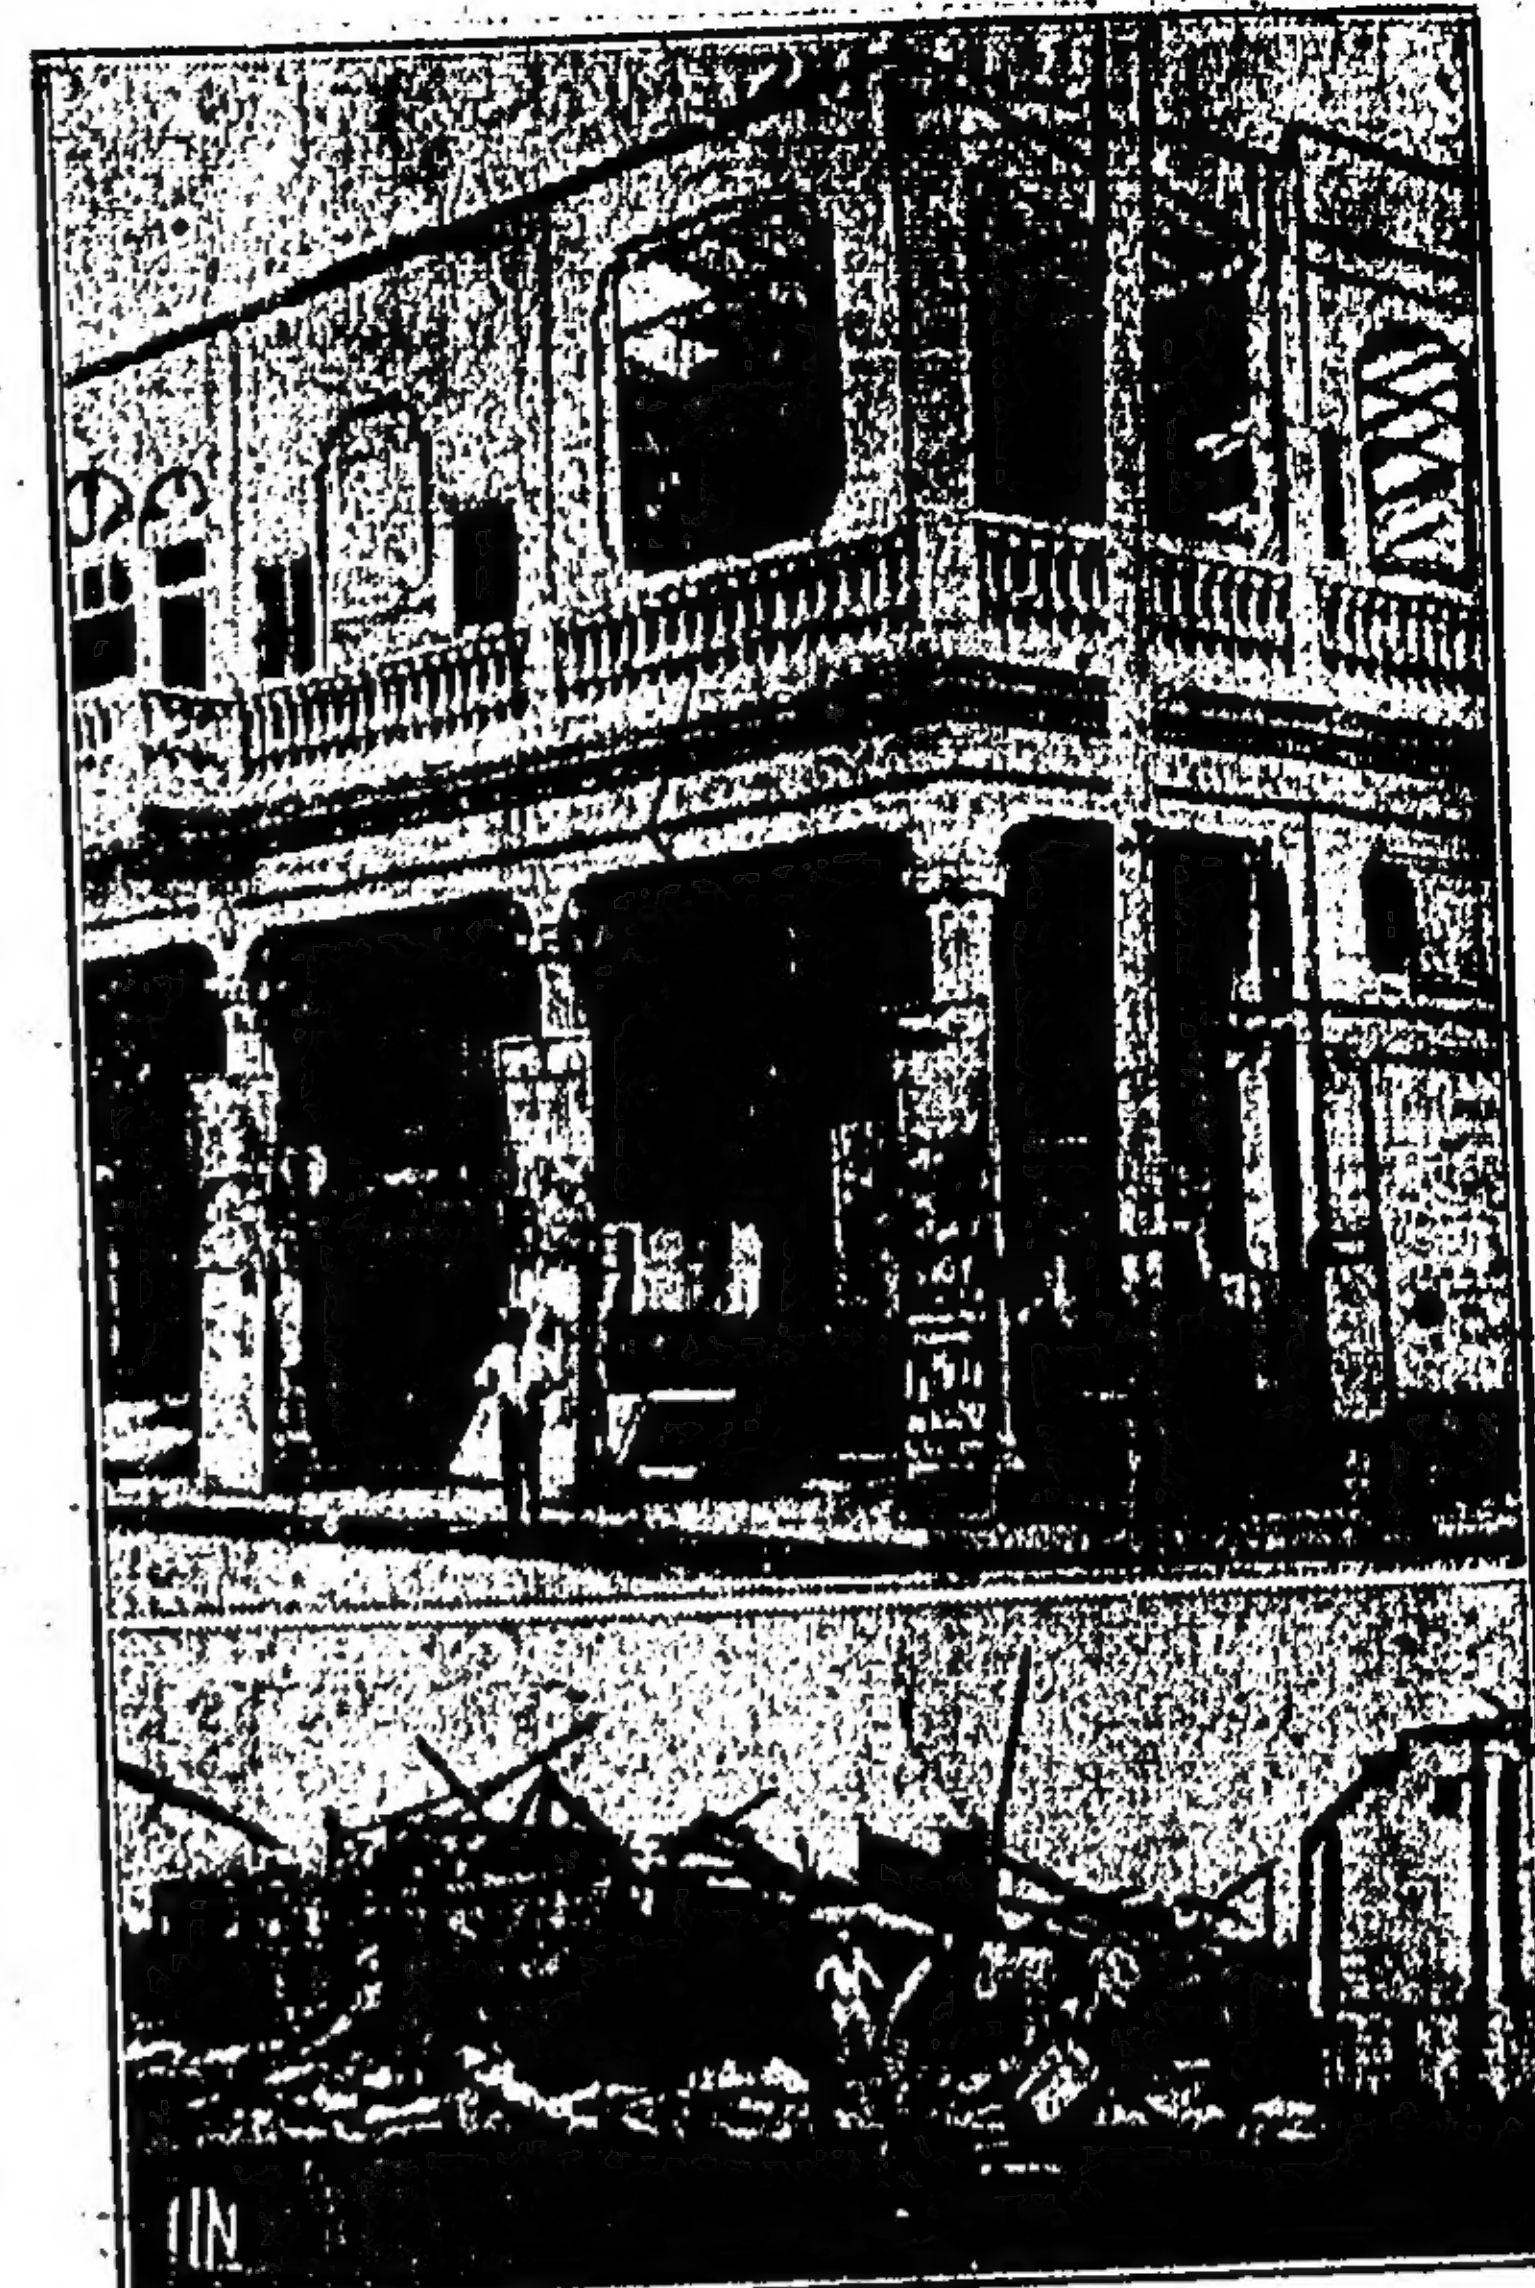

Long crept forward. It was black dark in the bushes.

That scab! He hadn't been in hospital after all. He had ambushed the little judge in the dark. That judge staked Lord, he might kill him.

Long snapped his fingers. Mickie's warm muzzle nosed his hand.

"Seek-a-bisc, Micko," said he. "Find-a-bisc, boy."

Mickie jumped to it. His man had never let him down over a bisc—and he was hungry.

"Chuff-chuff-chuff," he smelt. "Chuff-chuff-chuff!"

A sniff reached him above the still scents of the shrubs. Was it bisc? He struck a man trail. A warm breath billowed under the leaves.

He bounded forward, and Long followed.

Mick heard a wheezy growl and barked his own man on.

Pandemonium broke loose. Mick, in the dark, with his nose to a pocketful of "biscs," was demanding the reward from a man he had never smelt before, and who was kneeling on another on the ground: All three gave tongue, each in his own idiom, and the growly man's was not anemic.

Long jumped in, felt a coss whang along his forearm, and shooting his fist at random, connected with an eye that squelched under his knuckles, followed the blow, and fell forward with brushwood slashing his face.

Under him a man yelled, and Mickie growled through locked jaws. "Hold fast, the spaniels!"

"Where's the little beak?" thought Long, and a beam of light flashed on, revealing the attacker's pesty face below him, with Mick's teeth lodged in his neckcloth.

"Hold that man," said Sir Lucien Attwood. "He tried to murder me. I'll get help from the house."

"Hold?" said Long cheerily. "You bank on the tyke."

"I sentenced that man to 18 months at Brantshire Anzles last year," said Sir Lucien. "Take him away, sergeant."

"And you," he asked Long. "How did you come here?"

"The old tyke followed me to Fourmile, sir," said Long. "So I had to bring him back because of the money. Then, I heard that cove's voice. I give him some biscuits this afternoon, having no further use for them. In the dark I'd never have found him, but it struck me Mickie'd smelt the biscuits on him, so I said, 'Seek-a-bisc'—and sure enough he did."

"I'm very sensible of the service you have rendered me," said the judge, rubbing his head. "A thoroughly dangerous character. So you intended to restore the dog to me?"

"I come to bring you back your two quid."

"Rather have your dog?" questioned the old man. "But you sold him, remember."

Long's jaw dropped. "But me and him... well, it don't seem hardly right..."

"Silence," said the judge. "I propose to get a man to look after him and employ his spare time in the garden. The dog will be all right." He looked up sharply. "Care for the job?"

"Why, sir," stammered Long, "you mean that I... that that old tyke—I mean... me and him..."

"Mick," he called. "Micko, you... you woolly old rat-trap."

"And," said the judge severely, "I don't see why it shouldn't be a life sentence."

"Pettigrew! The tandalus, and siphon, and the barrel of—er—'biscs'!"

(The End).

PROTECTIVE FLAG FOR WAR CAMERAMEN

A special international flag for film cameramen has been proposed to the League of Nations in view of the large number of representatives despatched by the various film companies to what may prove to be a theatre of war. A design of a red circle on a white ground is suggested for this flag, which is to afford cameramen and photographers the same protection provided by the same protection provided by the red cross to the ambulance corps.

AUTUMN DRESS SCHEMES

WIDE belts of padded velvet, epaulettes and cuffs of fringed wool and "shoe-strings" of velvet lacing the neck and front of dresses, are some of the novel points that contribute to autumnal smartness.

Miles and miles of braid are being used in trimming, not only in the frog fastenings and other military-looking adornments on suits and coats, but also in simple edgings to hems, pockets and collars. Several rows of narrow braid make an effective border round the skirts of gored day-dresses. Black braid is seen on material of all shades, but sometimes a brightly coloured braid, such as holly red, is seen on black or navy-blue dresses.

Even coats this season go in for plenty of fancy touches, but in the matter of accessories perfect plainness is the decree. Slim handbags of envelope shape can be cloth-covered with just a narrow band of leather across them for decoration. If you prefer your bag to be of leather, choose a black, brown or dark grey one in calf-skin or suede.

Simple pull-on gloves of pigskin, suede or washable leather go with practically any outfit of the moment. Scarves that will be cosy as well as smart when chill winds blow may be of plain wool of very finest weave and light weight, or of soft angora.

Chamois leather cravat-scarves and gloves make a serviceable and up-to-date set to accompany a sports suit.

Felt scarves are another novelty, and some of those that have one short end brought over the other

In a single knot are finished with a felt flower.

Checks come into their own in the blouses that go with the smartest of cardigan and jacket suits. It is considered chic to introduce a little touch of some unexpected colour into the pattern. With a grey and green tweed suit, for example, there was a blouse of checked fabric in these two colours with a vivid line of rich purple woven in with them.

In hand-knitted wear, jumpers that contrast with their complementary cardigans are in favour. Plain navy-blue cardigans when opened reveal gay jumpers of cheerful plaid patterns, and cardigans of checked designs in two or more shades are worn with pull-overs in plain colours.

Blouses of cashmere and other woolen fabrics threaten to rival the knitted variety. A favourite style for a warm blouse is the "lumber jacket," which is one of the yoked designs gathered into a fitting band of its own material at the waist.

Vivid tartan skirts for sports wear are popular, and to tone down the general effect, black woolen blouses and black shoes and other accessories are the rule.

The beret that accompanies many a sporting ensemble, by the way, is nothing more than a minute skull cap that covers merely the crown of the head.

AUTUMN BEAUTY FORECAST

FASHIONABLE complexions will tend to have a satin surface instead of a velvet texture. There will be a reaction from matt effects in favour of the lustre make-up. But it won't be a crude shine. Experiments are being made to achieve a make-up that will be an exact replica of that radiant sheen which belongs only to the very young skin. This make-up will be worn with sophisticated evening clothes as well as in the day time.

For evening, light metallic eye-shadows will be popular.

Nail Beauty

Nails will shun bright polishes and revert to shell pink. Nail tips and half-moons will put in an appearance once more and will accentuate their come-back to the world of fashion by a meticulous blanching with white nail pencil and preparations for whitening the half-moon. Hands and nails will be treated with special tonics.

New Colours

With certain Autumn colours, notably violet and the plummy-prune shades, a creamy make-up with accent on the eyes and mouth will be correct. At night, with our romantic gowns, we shall be wearing the paler shades of lipstick—rose, coral, light flame.

The romantic revival too will mean tremendous importance of hand, neck, and arm beauty. The skin must be an even pearl, with a sheen like the pearl's own texture.

BEAUTY SECRETS FROM THE STARS

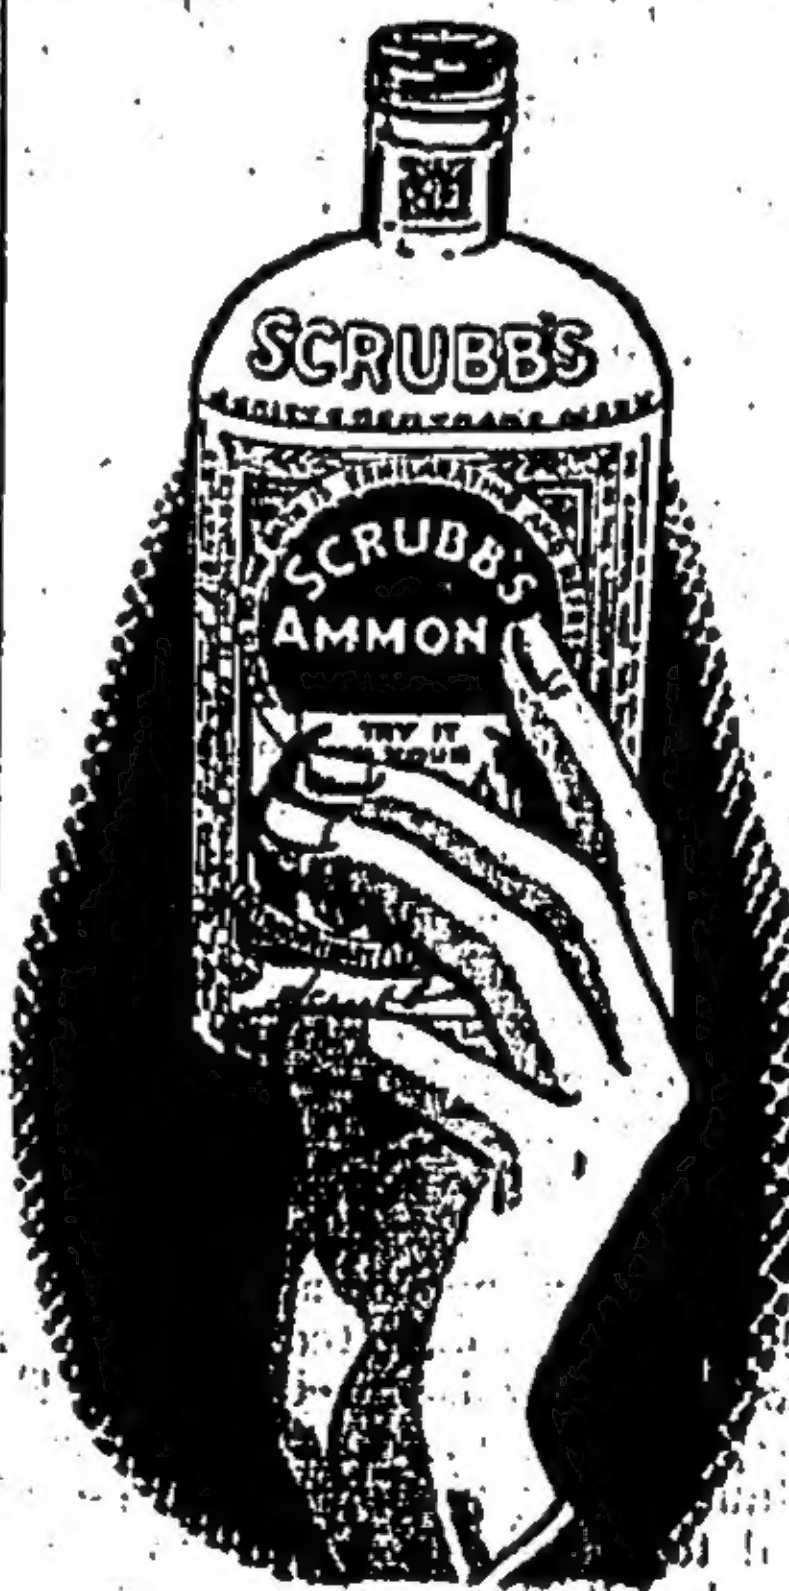

If you have a red head like Josephine Hutchinson, consider yourself lucky. For blondes and brunettes alike are rushing to transform their heads into carrot-tops, "carrot" being the fashionable colour in Hollywood just now.

But whether your red locks are natural or artificial, Josephine Hutchinson will tell you that the red-head needs to be more careful than her fair-skinned sister in the choice of a collar.

According to Miss Hutchinson, the keynote for the red-head should be dignity. Red hair, she thinks, should mould the head like a shining metal cap, and to achieve this effect the hair must be brushed and brushed and again brushed, until it seems to capture and imprison the sun itself.

The young star wears her lovely red-gold hair in the simplest manner. She sweeps it back from the brow in soft undulating waves off the ears, the long bob being instantly becoming to her delicate beauty.

Red hair, Miss Hutchinson thinks, should not be allowed to shroud the eyes, but it should be worn in a simple off-the-face style.

PROPRIETOR OF NORFOLK ISLAND NEWSPAPER—A WOMAN

TO the dwellers in a big city it might seem that a small island of 1,100 inhabitants could not offer as much as its enterprising proprietor can comfortably handle once a week.

She has to go out and get her own advertisements, attend all sporting fixtures, social events of importance, do her own court reporting, go through a heavy batch of overseas papers for the purpose of injecting overseas news into her pages, keep an eye on fashions, know where to put her finger on a good recipe or household hint—and be sufficiently businesslike to collect her own advertising revenue and attend to her own accounts.

Her staff consists of the artist, who cuts any stencilled designs necessary for advertisements, and a "printer's devil," the lad who "washes up" the Roneo machine on which the paper is duplicated, and turns the handle to run off the copies.

Newsprint for the production goes over from New Zealand or Sydney, as do ink supplies. The paper varies in size according to the news, but is usually 24 foolscap-size pages, is stapled together by the "printer's devil" and delivered by him to all parts of the island.

Publishing day is Wednesday, so that if news of special significance occurs on Tuesday or early on Wednesday a "stop-press" edition has to be run.

"Life on the island isn't very exciting, but it has its moments," says Mrs. Bruce. "I find it quite exciting enough to provide me with news. Then, too, I cut out of overseas papers all references made to Norfolk Island and reprint them. Not that one often finds many references to our little bit of the Pacific in overseas papers, but occasionally there is something."

Mrs. Bruce, who has lived on Norfolk Island for six years, has been the proprietor of the paper for two years now. She says she had no special qualifications for the job except that she had had a short training in journalism before her marriage. The paper was in danger of lapsing, and she simply thought that it was too good a thing to let slip. So she acquired it herself—and is still carrying on. "Norfolk Island looks forward to its paper, and I like to think I am doing something of a little value to the community. It pays its way, though it doesn't make vast profits," she smiled.

KOWLOON WIN, BUT UNCONVINCING

Eastern Better of Two Poor Teams

Kowloon's second string obtained their first points in the Second Division of the soccer League yesterday when, playing at home, they defeated the Eastern Athletic by 3 goals to 1.

Kowloon did not deserve to win, as the Eastern were the better of the two sides.

Kowloon obtained the first goal through Periera, who rushed the ball into the net following a corner kick by Humphries. The Eastern equalised just before half time, Chan Ping To receiving from a miscalculation to send the ball into the back of the rigging.

The mainlanders' second goal, scored within five minutes of the re-commencement, was extremely lucky. Humphries took a corner kick and a long centre was caught by the wind, the ball striking the upright to rebound into the net. Humphries scored the third goal 10 minutes from time, a neat shot from 12 yards beating Ho, easily.

AIRMEN CAUGHT NAPPING

Slackening Off Loses Two Points

On the Railway ground yesterday the Liga Portuguesa defeated the Air Force in the Third Division soccer encounter by 5 goals to 4.

During the first period the game was very even, Sells, Ewart and Murray scoring for the Airmen and Santos, (2), for the Liga.

On the resumption Murray scored the Airmen further ahead, but, relaxing their efforts, they allowed the Liga to score three further goals in quick succession through Souza, Santos and Remedios.

SOUTH CHINA LUCKY TO SECURE POINT

FUSILIER FORWARDS MISS CHANCES

KENEGHAN AND TALBOT EXCEL

SOUTH CHINA "B," in their opening First Division soccer game of the season, found the Fusiliers a very difficult proposition at Caroline Hill yesterday, and after being outplayed for the greater part of the match, were lucky to gain one point, the result being a goalless draw.

Harrison missed a penalty for the Fusiliers in the first half, and Pau Ka-ping was kept busy throughout in dealing with shots from the Fusilier forwards and halves.

Keneghan and Talbot were outstanding for the military side, both men displaying cleverness and understanding in all their moves. Time and again they combined to completely outwit the Chinese defence, and never once did they waste a ball, always parting to an unmarked player.

Harrison and Hughes were a dangerous right-wing pair, the latter sending in surprise shots from all angles at the South China goal. Roberts, on the left-wing, had few good chances in the first half, but was prominent with many well-placed centres and shots during the second period.

The Fusilier defence, opposing an exceedingly fast and tricky forward line, quickly settled down to a game of hard and prompt tackling and first-time clearing, and, after the first 10 minutes, had so subdued the Chinese that Rowlands scarcely had to deal with a shot worth troubling about. Keating played the game of his life, covering Wheeler's every move, and with Wanklyn and Ellis marking the South China wing-men closely, the Fusilier defence was seen at its best.

Great things were expected of the "B" team, but, although opening strongly, they simply could not devise a method to throw the Fusilier defence off their stolid game, while the Chinese defence found themselves unable to stop the sweeping attacks made against them, and it was only by continually packing their goal that they averted a score.

The Saints played Marques in goal and Hussain at right-back in place of the two Souza's, while the only change in the R.A. team was Mosley, who deputised for Roscoe.

The downfall of the Gunners' goal came when V. Costa, the Saints left-back, fired in a high ball which entered the net, much to the surprise of Hall. Play then went in favour of St. Joseph's, and a great deal of work was thrown upon Lewis and Price through the inability of Hunt, Gardner and Adams to hold their opponents' inside forwards.

After the interval the Saints adopted short passing methods which were not a success owing to the bustling play of the Gunners.

Gunners Equalise

Forbes received the ball from Gardner and centred perfectly for Barracough to head the equaliser. Coyle then lost a good chance of giving the R.A. the lead by shooting over the bar from close range.

The Gunners, however, took the lead through Barracough, who beat Marques with a fast, rising shot. The same player completed his "hat-trick" two minutes after when he snapped up a splendid pass from Hunt and shot hard past Marques from 20 yards.

At this stage Costa changed places with Fernandes at outside-left, and the Saints went all out to reduce the lead. The goal-keeping of Hall was magnificent—three times he threw himself full length to save his goal.

Singh scored the Saints' second goal from a pass by Omar when he beat Hall from 10 yards.

R.A. Stonecutters: Hall; Price and Lewis; Gardner, Hunt and Adams; Forbes, Coyle, Barracough, Mosley and Smith.

St. Joseph's: Marques; Hussain and V. Costa; Aycock, Leonard and Elms; Omar, Ward, Singh, Sinclair and Fernandes.

FUSILIERS SCORE 13

Ten University Players In Bewilderment

A very one-sided Second Division soccer game between the Fusiliers and University resulted in an overwhelming victory for the Fusiliers by 13 goals to nil, all the forwards scoring.

The University were handicapped by the fact they were playing only 10 men.

Goals were scored by Evans (3), Cookley (2), Greasy and Bumater before the interval, and Greasy, Bumater (2), Evans, Parry and Cookley added goals after the change-over.

KOWLOON HOLD POLICE

OPPENHEIM NETS EQUALISER LATE IN GAME

KOWLOON surprised their most optimistic supporters yesterday in their First Division soccer encounter against the Police at Kowloon by sharing two goals with the leaders, after facing a one-nil deficit at the interval.

During the opening stage of the game Blackburn received a nasty cut over the eye and had to leave the field for about five minutes, returning with one eye covered in plaster. Despite this handicap, he played a sterling game in the defence, but the honours must go to Chris Pile, undoubtedly the best man on the field yesterday. His fearless tackling and sure, clean clearances were wonderful to watch.

The Police came into the lime-light some five minutes after the start, Brooks sending across an open goalmouth for Johnstone to kick high over the top from about five yards. Johnstone, however, made amends shortly after when he took a high pass from Brooks to hook the ball back into the act beyond Boyes' reach.

The Police took charge of affairs during the second half, but were unable to score. A sudden change to the other end saw D. Knox break away, draw the defence and then pass to Oppenheim who beat McHardy with hard drive to the top right corner.

Kowloon: Boyes; Everest, Eastman; Kemp, Ellis, Boyd; W. Knox, V. White, G. White, Oppenheim, and D. Knox.

Police: McHardy; Blackburn, C. Pile; Brooks, Gough, Brittain; T. Pile, Johnstone, Stephens, Green, and Moss.

The Club de Recreio had no difficulty in obtaining an easy victory over the Royal Artillery (Lyemun) yesterday, winning by 6 goals to 2 in their First Division soccer match at King's Park.

In the first moment of the game the Recreio upset the Artillery by breaking through from the kick-off and rushing towards the Artillery goal with a lightning-like move. B. Gosano smashed the ball towards goal, but it struck the upright, only to allow Alves to net from the bound. Within three minutes the Recreio had added their second. This time Bertia Gosano was immediately in front of goal awaiting his chance, and Alves sent across a beautiful pass, Bertia heading the ball into the net.

The Artillery opened up their account with a neat goal from Edmunds during a melee.

The Recreio soon returned to the Artillery area and within seven minutes had gained two more goals through B. Gosano, who thus completed his hat-trick.

Then the referee awarded a penalty kick to the Gunners for alleged dangerous play by Beltrao in the danger area and Recreio netted from the "spot".

Recreio: — R. Marques; A. V. Gosano, Bowen; Delgado, Beltrao; V. Marques; W. Costa, T. Castilho, B. Gosano, J. Gomes and A. Alves.

Artillery (Lyemun): Durham, Fisher, Clancey; Taylor, Morton, Worthington; Nash, Rivers, Reeco, Edmunds and Knight.

Howlett Shoots Wide From "Spot"

An exciting and extremely fast Second Division soccer encounter between the Engineers and Club Juniors resulted in a draw, both sides scoring once.

Both goals had amazing escapes throughout the game, the uprightness of each being struck at least four times.

A few minutes before half time, the Engineers were awarded a penalty for "hands" by Hopkins, but Howlett shot wide!

After the interval several unsuccessful efforts were made by both sides before the Engineers eventually took the lead, Howlett, following a good movement on the left, netting with a good shot.

The Club were soon on the mark, however, and Duncan, receiving a nice long pass from Williams, broke through to obtain the equaliser.

4 FOR SINGLETON

Fusiliers Retain Proud Record

The Fusiliers retained their undefeated record in the Third Division yesterday when they met and defeated the Chinese Police, on the Valley Ground by 4 goals to 1.

The Police were the first to score, Fan Kwai Choi converting a low centre from the left. Singleton, the military side's clever centre-forward, however, equalised soon after with a splendid header from a centre from the right.

As the second half progressed the soldiers gradually took command, Singleton placing them in the lead, and almost immediately afterwards netting again with a fast shot after working the ball down the centre. The final goal came a few minutes before the end, Singleton again converting.

KOWLOON TEAMS IN FINE FETTER

FUSILIERS SCORE 13 AGAINST 'VARSITY

ATHLETIC JUNIORS TROUNCED

UPSETS galore featured all three divisions of the local Football League yesterday, the biggest of which took place in the First Division, where the Fusiliers forced South China "B" to a goalless draw in the latter's debut match this season, while Stonecutters secured their first win of the season by beating St. Joseph's.

Kowloon surprised their most optimistic critics by forcing the Police, most serious challengers to South China "A," to a draw, while the Club beat the Lincolls by the odd goal. The Fusiliers created what is probably a local record by netting 13 times against the University without reply in their Second Division encounter. They now have the amazing goal-average of 35 for and 5 against as the result of six games!

The Kowloon juniors secured their first pair of points by surprisingly defeating the Eastern but the East Lanes, caused the biggest upset by overwhelming the Athletic juniors by 8 goals to 1.

In the Third Division the Fusiliers, by trouncing the Chinese Police by 4 goals to 1, definitely established themselves as the potential champions in addition to recording the 'treble' for the Regiment. The Liga de Portuguesa recorded their third win of the season by beating the Air Force to cause yet another upset.

The Lincolns again proved themselves the Lanes bogey team when the Prince Edward Road yesterday they ran out winners by the odd goal in seven in their Third Division soccer encounter. On three occasions the Lanes took the lead, but their goals were in the nature of gifts, and 15 minutes before time it was against the run of the play that the Lincolns were behind.

After goals by Crooks, Barrett and Scullion had been nullified by Stone Rush and Chisholme, Moody secured the points for the Lincolns by following up a shot which Johnson could not hold and placing the ball well out of the keeper's reach.

The Club's two wing men, Bickford and Fowler played an excellent game, while E. Strange, playing at inside-left, after his long absence, played brilliantly in spasms, but failed to add the finishing touches to clever tackling. S. Strange, again a tower of strength in the Club's defence, effectively cleared many dangerous shots by Higgins, the soldiers' pivot.

The Club were the first to attack and after 10 minutes Fowler scored from a splendid pass by E. Strange. Shortly afterwards Higgins equalised for the Lincolns with an unstoppable shot from close range, following a perfect pass by Malpas.

Fowler's Second Goal

In the second half the Club attacked immediately, and Fowler went close with a header after a brief melee in the goalmouth, the ball being well held and cleared by Road. However, a few minutes later, Fowler was again presented with an opportunity in the shape of a glorious pass by Bickford and this time he netted with a powerful drive.

Club:—Rodger; G. Hill and S. Strange; J. Skinner, Farrow and Gilchrist; F. Fowler, Elliott, Lammer, E. Strange and Bickford.

Lincolns:—Read; Ash and Edwinson; Thompson, Deeming and Robson; Clayton, Malpas, Higgins, Ridley and Baldry.

St. Joseph's were soon on the mark following the interval, and within 10 minutes had added two further goals through Joahinho and Ribeiro, the former, completing his "hat-trick".

Keener than ever to shave you, Sir

—it's electrically tempered

It's true. Gillette's new electrical tempering process definitely does make possible a keener edge than ever before. Two different temperings in one blade is the secret. Extra hardness down the sides is attained by Gillette's special process, which softens the centre of the steel without interfering in any way with the hardness of the cutting edges. Result—while the blades are soft enough in the centre to bend to the razor, the incredibly hard steel at the sides can be honed to a keener edge than you've ever known. Moreover, the edge stays keen longer, thus giving many more shaves per blade.

Strong Claims For Recognition

SELECTED PLAYERS FAIL

As the result of the Interport trial yesterday, it is now obvious that one of the two vacancies in the team will be filled by A. R. Minu, while the most likely candidate for the other seems to be E. R. Duckitt, who showed brilliant form with the bat yesterday to enable T. E. Pearce's XI to beat the side captained by A. W. Hayward by 3 wickets.

Hayward's side, which included the nine players already selected, batted first, but, apart from Fincher (43) and Madar (31) the batsmen proved very vulnerable against the steady bowling of A. R. Minu, who took 6 wickets for 54 runs.

Fincher hit seven boundaries in the course of his innings, while Madar had only three boundary hits in his 31.

Minu, keeping a perfect length bowled throughout the innings.

Eighth Wicket Stand

Pearce's XI started disastrously, and it was left to Duckitt and Minu to pull the game out of the fire. Minu's knock was a merry and somewhat lucky one, but Duckitt played good cricket for his 35 not out. He hit five boundaries, while Minu had eight 4's, one 6 and a 5. The pair added 64 runs for the eighth wicket.

As Duckitt is an extremely useful change bowler in addition to being a sound bat, his claims for recognition are very strong.

THE WORSHIPPERS OF FOOD

Objectionable Traits Of The Food-Snob

One Of The Worst Kinds Of Bore

(By OSBERT SITWELL)

HOW nice it is to eat;

All creatures love it so," chants, if I am not mistaken, Mr. Sturge Moore in a delightful poem entitled "Beautiful Meals." And that, to my mind, is the proper spirit in which to regard eating.

I hate the lean and sallow man who does not care what he eats, so long as it comes out of a tin. (He it is, who plans wars and succeeds in high finance). I tend to avoid, equally, the arid company of the dilettante, who, in their arrogant confidence, insist on consuming exclusively, like certain caterpillars, the raw leaves of cabbage or hollyhock, or who attribute the fact of their unfortunate survival to the virtues inherent in sour milk or orange juice.... But the food-snob, whose talk is all of eating, and of the ways and places in which to eat, is no better company.

Worst Food In Europe

Alas, it is precisely because, in general, the English prepare and serve up to themselves the worst food in Europe, precisely because they prefer factory-made to home-made edibles, and imported to home-grown; because, for example, they would rather (as I once discovered) bring bilberries to Buxton—a far less sensible procedure, one would have thought, than to bring coals to Newcastle—all the way from Sweden, than pick them in their thousands on the neighbouring moors, that the reaction is so strong. Of it is the food-snob born.

You can tell him by the curious glint in his eye, similar to that which our ancestors used to detect in the eye of some persecuted religious minority, Puritan or Catholic: for good living has not made the food-snob any less of a fanatic than has the involuntary asceticism of tin-addict or diet-fetted. But, though he has this look, and though he tends to adhere, as though for protection, to some special sect, like the Food and Wine Club, this is not because he is persecuted, but, on the contrary, because he wishes to persecute others: to force his views on us.

September Dainties
During this month of September, with oysters and partridges and aubergines, the food-snob is pampered and petted beyond his desert (or should I write "dessert"?). And is encouraged, even, to write letters to the Press about his own particular little snobblism; letters, the publication of which confirms him in it.

Nevertheless, as such a correspondence indicates, the food-snob, albeit they gather themselves into clubs, are no happy band of brothers. They break out, on the slightest provocation, into a ferocious and interminable wrangling, quite as severe as that which in other days would have denoted a fervent religious community.

This internecine quarrelling you can observe for yourself, dragging its weary length along like a wounded serpent—walking on its belly, as it were—through the columns of the daily press.

Even now these letters are being published; playful letters, coy letters (from those who treat each meal as if it were a love affair), severe letters, angry letters; about the merits of this oyster or that, of Whitstable v. Colchester and Cornish, of relaid Bluepoints, and of the romantic-hued Portuguese. Then, when every oyster has been discussed to the point of nausea, and it seems as if, at last, the correspondence would die down, a new one arises in its stead.

Heretics And Dissenters

What, a new food-snob inquires, is the best drink with which "to wash down"—a favourite phrase—the oyster; warmed porter or stout, or a glass or two of very cold chablis or champagne? And out of this, again, starts the all-important issue, what is the correct temperature of the wine—at the heat of the room or the heat of the body—when served with partridge?—a point of doctrine that cleaves the catholic body of food-snobs to its foundation and tends to split them up into various heretic and dissenting chapels, until Hot Gospellers and Cold Gospellers rage furiously together....

Further, should the cork be drawn twenty-four hours before drinking the claret, or should it be left, to pop festively at the last moment, in front of the assembled guests?.... Other seasons, too, offer of course their points of dispute; and, for example, people who like to devour strawberries with orange juice or with marsala can scarcely bring themselves to speak to the ones who indulge a more orthodox passion for strawberries and cream.

Nor is it, by any means, only the Higher Food experts who make themselves tedious by their sermons.

Regional Cooking

The enthusiast of Regional Cooking often constitutes himself such an unspeakable pest that, mercifully, we wish him back in his favourite little rotisserie in Paris; where he must bump his head against low, catch-fool beams as he enters, to eat, in the stuffiest possible little room, off thick, greasy pottery, which he must first essay to clean for himself with that damp, blue-checked duster which there does duty for a napkin....

Worse still is the patriot food-snob, who believes in English food only, clamouring perpetually that it should be better known, and lauds draught beer, Wensleydale cheese and mint-sauce, that soul-searing liquor which I have seen reduce a French lady, when she found that she had been helped to it unawares, to bitter weeping.

Nevertheless, though the minute points of lore which all these experts propound are, indeed, exquisitely tedious, it yet does not much matter so long as they only assuage their own kind.

The Herd Instinct

For which reason we should, perhaps, be grateful that food-and-wine hounds now betray a tendency to band themselves into packs and clubs; where, self-interested by the degree of their own mania, they can safely bore one another and not us.... But that which ought not to be allowed is that they should be permitted to obtrude their opinions, and their different certainties of attaining to the Gourmet's Heaven, upon members of the innocent general public, who are as harassed by the publication of these mutually contradictory views as a man would be who visited ten fortune-tellers in succession and then strove to obey their varying injunctions.

The ordinary householder, withal, now scarcely dares to eat at all, except with members of his family in the privacy of his own house, lest he may commit some all-important solecism and thus make himself and his dearest ones ridiculous for ever.

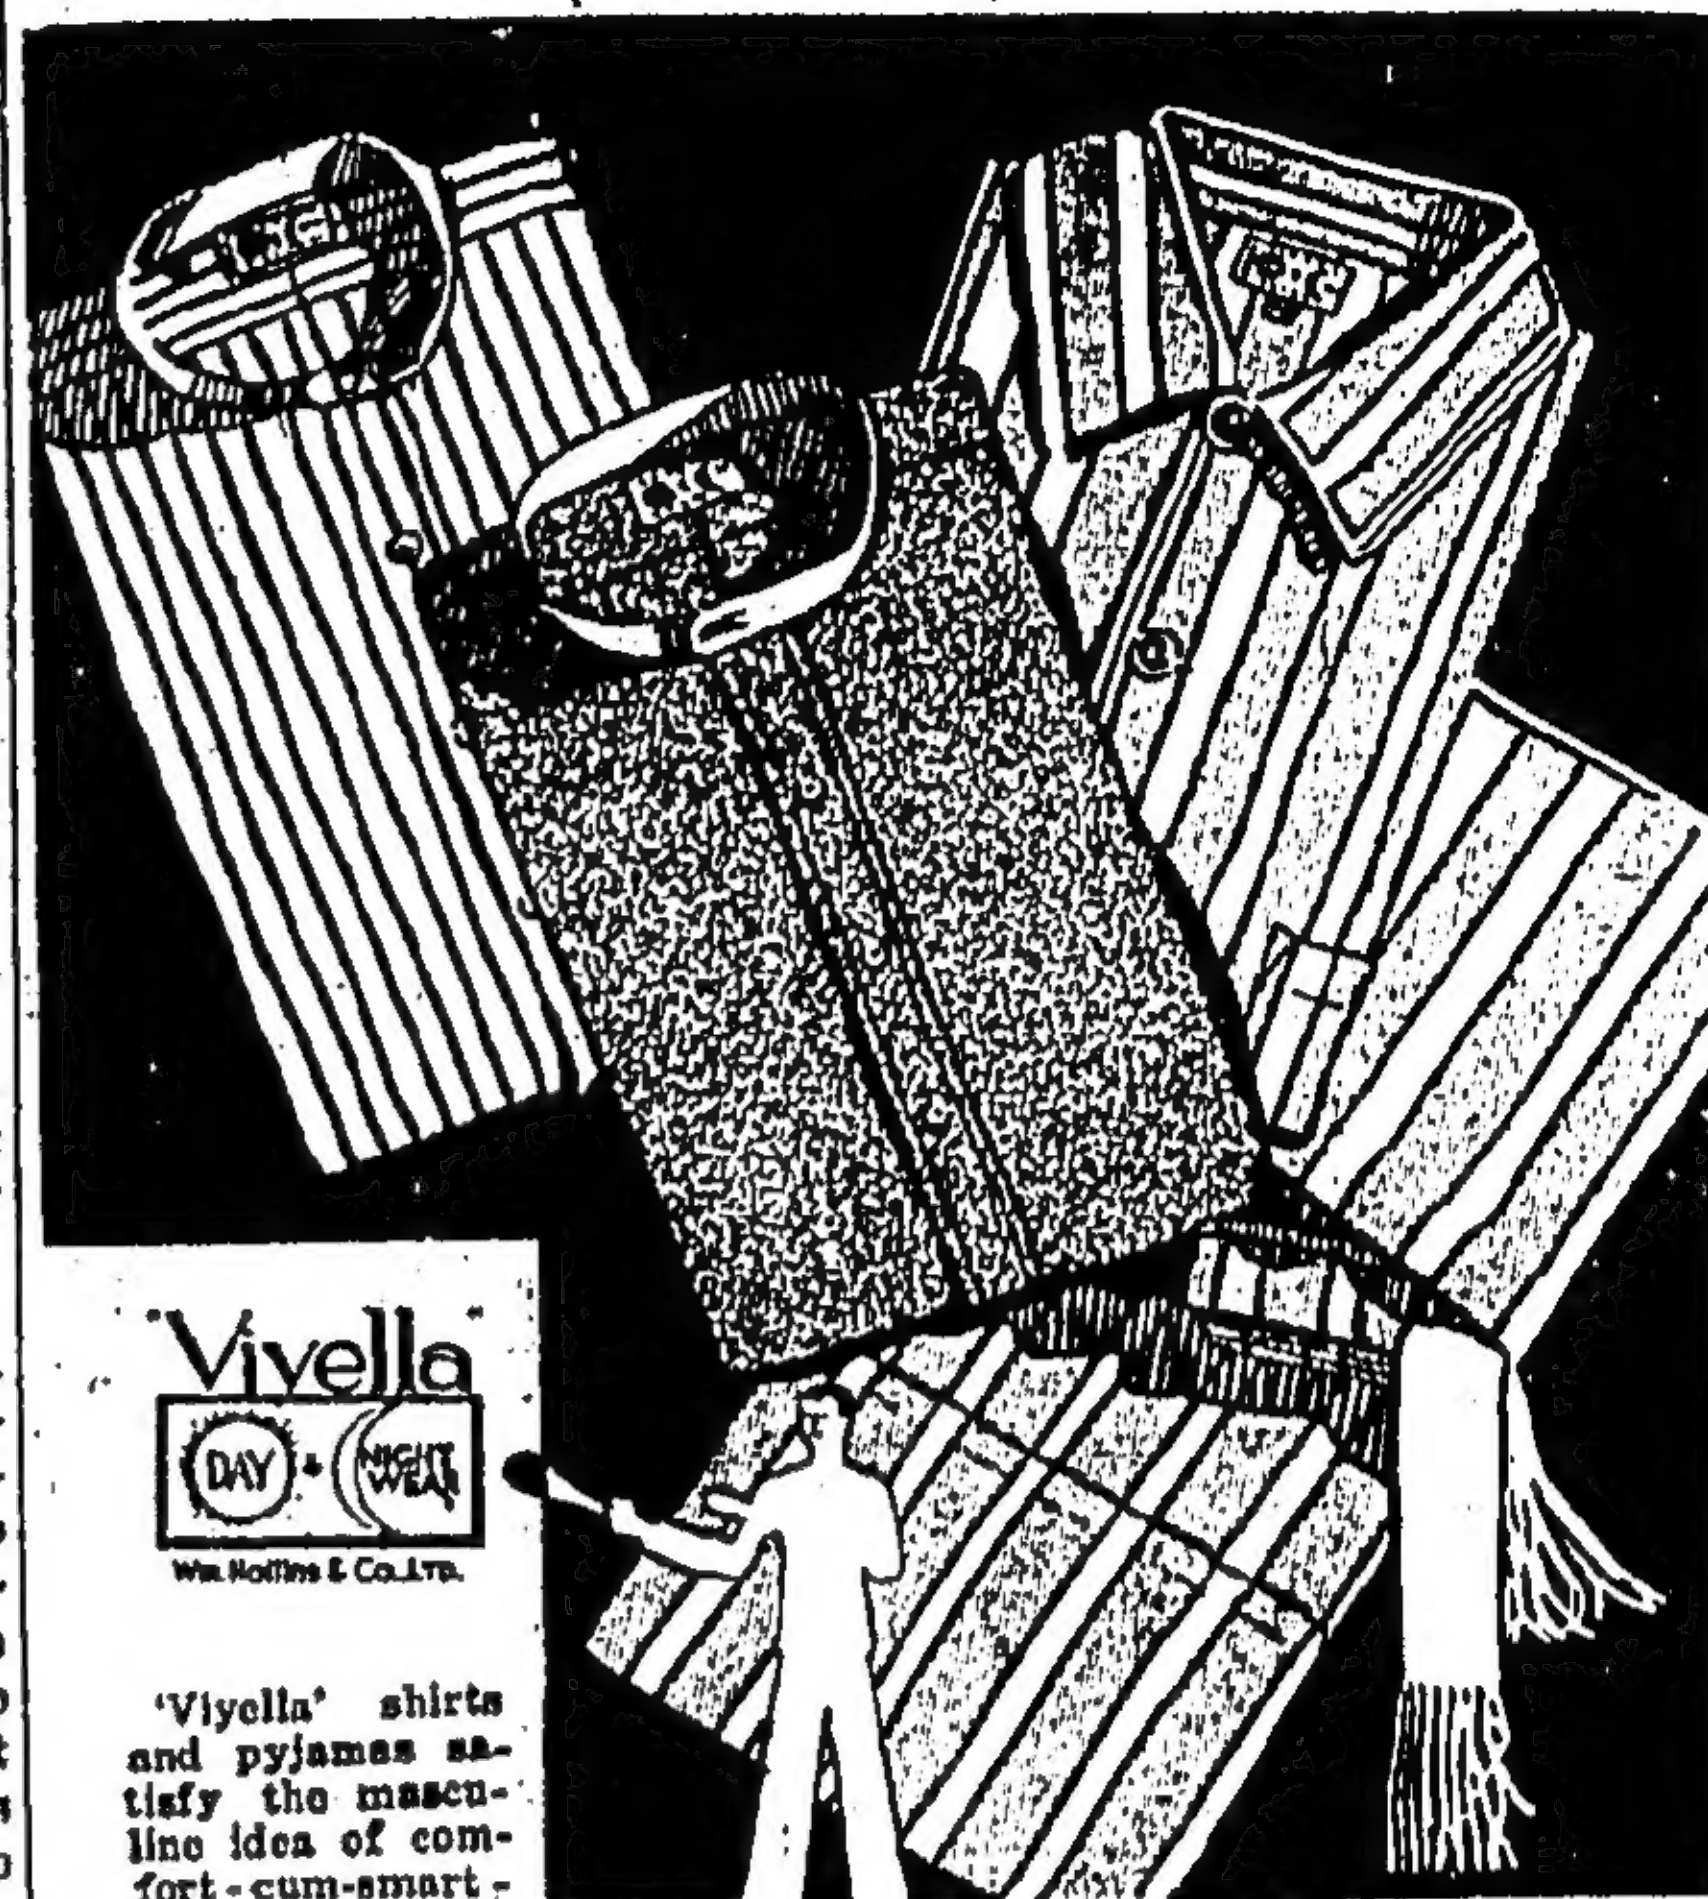

And last—but not least—there is the question whether, in times such as these, when many have to go without much food at all, it is decent for food-snobs to parade their epicurean views in public.

A MOTTO FOR LIFE MAKING THE BEST OF ALL AND EVERYBODY

LASTLY, HOPE THE BEST FOR YOURSELF

(By Rev. J. N. LEWIS BRYAN)

SOME time ago I came across the life motto of George Stephenson, the father of the locomotive, as he has been called, the man whose brains and sagacity have made possible the network of railways which spreads to-day across the earth. It was this:

1. Make the best of everything.
2. Make the best of everybody.
3. Hope the best for yourself.

Make the best of everything. In every set of circumstances possible or conceivable there are always at any rate two ways of acting. You can look for the helpful, bright and hopeful things, and freeze on to these, or you can select all the doleful, sombre aspects and sit down in the dust with them. If it made no difference which a man does, there would be no good saying any more. But the whole world knows that the man who makes the best of his circumstances, however hard they may be, comes most happily out of them in the end. In plain words, it pays to make the best of things. It is the cheery people who recover quickest when they are sick, not the pessimist who is for ever fearing the worst about himself and his condition.

There are men who, if their house should fall in ruins about their heads, will contrive some means of shelter with the broken beams. That is the type that wins out in the end; these are the men to whom miracles happen—who never know when they are beaten, who are never done until they are dead. What makes for success or failure in a man is nothing external to himself at all. It is something within him. It is the temper of his spirit. It is the way he captains his own soul.

The great Scotch preacher, Alexander, tells how one day he saw a photograph of a backyard. It was a little bit of a place, of most forlorn appearance, littered with tin cans, overgrown with weeds and hemmed round with blank walls of brick. But it came into the hands of a man who believed in making the best of everything. Another photograph showed that same back-yard a year later. It was as small as ever, still overlooked by high walls and surrounded by chimneys. But it was now a perfect oasis of beauty amid a wilderness of bricks and slates. What is Hong Kong itself but another case in point?

Right up the scale, from little things to the highest things, the man who looks for the shining possibilities and follows them is the man on whom, in our short-sighted way, we say fortune smiles. On a point of fact, he smiles in such a determined way on fortune, that she has at length to smile back on him!

Nobody pretends that it is easy, when we have failed, to gather our powers together and try again. But nearly all the men who have done something in the world of professions and business have had to do this very thing. It is not easy, when you are carrying about a heavy burden of your own, to spare a cheery word or a smile or the hand of sympathy for someone who is much better off, but there are plenty of people doing it at this very moment, and they are the salt of the earth. The Palace of Nero was the last place you would expect to find a company of loyal Christians. Yet there were "Saints of Caesar's household," and the grace of God that made

THE PASSING HOUR
FORTUNATELY none of that deference on which we commented last week as observable in our social and discussion societies can be brought as a charge against our sports. If a man wants to keep on his feet on the football field, it is his own feet he has to stand on. But we were rather startled the other day by overhearing a remark "he doesn't play football, he plays Rucker." Thirty years ago it would have been impossible to say that, and there is much history involved in the change. It is of course true that it was the old "Football Association" that first organised the game, and that it was organised as a kick-and-not-a-handling game. But for many years it was all on a very small scale, and the number of clubs very limited. Also matches were local, and attracted very little attention from the Press.

RUNNING WITH THE BALL

AS the name intimates, it was at Rugby, in a school game, that a boy first picked up the ball and ran with it. The event is commemorated in a stone slab set into the wall of the playing field at the spot nearest to where it happened. The innovation was recognised as an improvement, and adopted into the school game. At that time every school had its own rules, and the Eton "Wall Game," and the Winchester game still survive, so that when boys from those schools "go down," they have to learn the rules over again, whatever code they elect to follow. Wykehamists usually choose "Soccer," Etonians "Rucker."

THE HEYDAY OF RUGBY

DURING the "Eighties" the "carrying code" spread like wildfire, and had all the patronage of the crowd. I can remember when the Association clubs did not even enclose their grounds. The great event of the year was the Rugby International between England and Scotland. As a small boy I watched that event on the Lancashire Football Ground in 1882, when such unprecedented crowds poured into the gates that both the outer wall of galvanised iron, and the fence round the playing ground were pressed down flat. A ball was considered to go into touch if it went into the crowd. When the great Scots threequarters, Don Wauchope, scored the only try of the day, so many people threw their hats into the air and never recovered them, that as one came away one was walking on a carpet of hats.

PROFESSIONALISM

It was professionalism that made all the difference. Many of the famous players were miners or factory hands, who demanded "broken time"—a payment equal to the amount of wages they lost through absence when playing for their club. This

PHYSICAL CULTURE IN CHINA

Strong Bodies And Minds Needed

London, Yesterday. General Chang Chih-chiang, head of the Physical Culture Bureau at Nanking, was entertained in London yesterday by the conference of the English Missionary Societies. General Chang is visiting Europe and America to study physical training systems. He said that he aimed at combining the best Western and European systems for the physical development of the Chinese, and declared that the Chinese physique was poor, as compared with that of Westerners. China needs strong bodies and strong minds in the tasks confronting her.—Reuter.

was ruled to be professionalism, and they split off to form the "Northern Union." Popular support was transferred to the Association game, which recognised cash payments, and soon began to rake in fortunes in gate-money.

THE GAME BEFORE RULES

BEFORE there were any rules or limitation of the number of players, from the Middle Ages downwards, the game was a municipal affair. Both kicking and carrying were allowed, but numbers made it difficult to get away with the ball, and kicking was the safer plan. The old game has survived in one place only, on the border between England and Scotland, at Jedburgh. Once a year on the day when the new Provost enters on his office, he takes his stand on the raised base of the market cross, with a beautiful new round ball. The balls are presented by the ladies of the town, gaily decorated with ribbons. The sides are all the people that live on one side or the other of the main road, and the goals are at opposite sides of the town. The Provost throws the new ball into the crowd, and the rest is a wild scramble. It is recognised that no objection will be made to "trespass," and the scrum urges through gardens and over walls, and even now and then through a house. Elaborate schemes of tactics have been designed by each side, anticipating the "American" game. Whoever scores a goal is allowed to keep the ball as a treasured heirloom. If the struggle has been fairly short, the Provost will return to the market square and throw in another new ball. There is always a plentiful stock in reserve. It is great fun while it lasts, and nothing could be imagined more remote from professionalism and gate-money.

All YIELD to the QUICK ACTION of 'ASPRO'

THOUSANDS have testified to the efficacy of 'ASPRO,' and thousands more have proved by use that 'ASPRO' definitely soothes away the excruciating pains of Lumbago, Sciatica, Neuralgia, Headaches, etc. It quickly stops the pain. There is no waiting or delay; furthermore, 'ASPRO' is safe, and it does not harm the heart, digestion, or stomach. It can be taken by anyone, anywhere, at any time, and the reason why 'ASPRO' has such a large number of uses in every home is because, after ingestion in the system, it is an internal antiseptic—an anti-pyretic or fever reducer—an anti-periodic—a powerful germicide, and a definite solvent of Uric Acid.

My father has suffered for a number of years with LUMBAGO and RHEUMATISM in a severe state, being in bed 8 or 9 weeks at a time each year. Some time ago he tried 'ASPRO' Tablets for relief, and they acted wonderfully. During the last 11 years he has taken very many Tablets, but he enjoys better health and does not get a return of severe pains, nor any ill effects from taking your 'ASPRO'.

He continues to take 'ASPRO' Tablets daily, and would recommend anyone suffering from LUMBAGO or RHEUMATISM to try 'ASPRO' Tablets as they give such splendid relief.

DANCING DISPLAY AT THE KING'S

Miss Capell's Pupils To Entertain

DRESS REHEARSAL TO-DAY

What has proved to be one of the most talented local displays, and consequently one of the most popular, is the annual dancing display given by the pupils of Miss Violet Capell.

Those, therefore, who have attended and enjoyed these displays in previous years are no doubt looking forward to the next, which is to be held in the King's Theatre next Wednesday at 5 p.m. under the distinguished patronage of His Excellency the Officer Administering the Government, Sir Thomas Southorn, and Lady Southorn.

Those who attend the performance, will, in addition to obtaining a very pleasant evening's entertainment, have the satisfaction of knowing that they have assisted in a good cause, for part of the proceeds of the display is intended for the funds of the H.K. Benevolent Society and the London Hospital.

The dress rehearsal will take place at the King's Theatre at 10 a.m. to-day.

On Tuesday next the Hong Kong Branch of the English Association will begin its activities for the Session 1935-36, when Mr. A. H. Patterson, B.A. (Oxon.) will speak on "The National Theatre."

NEW "BRANDY" FOR SALE

Offered To Agent For Hennessy!

STUDENT FACES CHARGE

The case in which Chan Chun-fang, aged 22, a student of Canton, was charged with unlawfully having in his possession on October 20 for sale four bottles of adulterated liquor to which a trade mark was falsely applied, was heard yesterday morning by Mr. W. Schofield at the Central Magistracy. After evidence had been heard the case was adjourned till Tuesday at 11 a.m.

In reply to the charge, the defendant said that he did not know what the contents of the bottles were as he had been given the bottles by some friends.

Came To Wrong House In the witness box, Mr. J. P. Lambert, manager of Messrs. Rondon and Co., local agents for Hennessy Brandy, said that on Saturday last at about 8.30 someone came to his house at No. 128 Kennedy Road, and offered some brandy for sale. As the boy knew he would not be interested he was sent away, but he was recalled and witness asked him, through the boy, what kind of brandy he had and was told, several kinds. In reply to questions, he said he had Hennessy Brandy, and that the price was $3.50 a bottle.

Defendant said that he got the goods from a ship, but had no licence and duty was not paid. The price was agreed upon at $3, and when asked the quantity defendant could supply, witness was told three bottles. He asked for one bottle.

Defendant went away for ten minutes and on his return the witness brought three bottles. Witness opened a bottle and found it was not brandy by the smell. Defendant was then detained and taken to the Police Station. The contents of the bottles were spirit which had been coloured with calomel, while essence of Vanilla had been added to give the proper odour.

THE HONG KONG SINGERS

ARMISTICE DAY RECITAL

TWO FINE WORKS BEING PERFORMED

There is a great demand for programmes in connection with the Recital by the Hong Kong Singers in St. John's Cathedral on Armistice Day, November 11, at 9.15 p.m.

Two more appropriate works could not have been chosen for performance. Elgar's setting of Laurence Binyon's immortal poem "For the Fallen" is undoubtedly the finest composition those terrible war years produced, while Brahms' "Requiem" is admittedly the loveliest, if the most difficult, masterpiece of the great classical composer. It requires a splendid choir like the Hong Kong Singers, whose enthusiasm and efficiency are undoubted, to give us the opportunity of hearing such great things, and Hong Kong will not be slow to show its appreciation.

At the wish of the President, Lady Southorn, the proceeds will be devoted to St. Dunstan's and the Hong Kong Society for the Protection of Children. To avoid disappointment it is recommended that application should be made for programmes without delay. These can now be obtained from Messrs. Anderson's, Moutrie's and the Taang Fook Music Co. Any further information will willingly be supplied by Mrs. T. S. Whyte-Smith, 10 Queen's Gardens (Tel. 20476), or Mr. J. Anderson Miller (Tel. 60288).

Over 50 village shops were entirely gutted by a fire which started in the Hui Kee Paper Shop in Lin Tong Street at 10 p.m. yesterday.

Fire hoses had to be connected to a fire float and re-connected with the nearest water supply pipe line.

Human Nature

ON Wednesday Bishop Hall is to preside at a debate on the question whether the present state of human nature justifies us in expecting that it will be possible to outlaw war. A fascinating and important subject, but do we know enough about human nature to say anything about it at all? We take for granted that there is such a thing, and we are fond of saying that "human nature never changes." Never has there been any period in which so much material has been accumulated for the study of mankind in past ages. We know from these wonderful excavations in Egypt, Crete, Babylonia and Central Asia what people looked like thousands of years ago, what clothes they wore, what songs their poets made for their amusement, what victories they won over their enemies. And the more we learn the more we recognise a fellow-feeling with the heroes and the bards, and even with the braggarts who could write of nothing but their own prowess. "The wrath of Achilles" which is the subject of Homer's Iliad, is a story of martial achievement coupled with a childish pique that reads marvellously like an imitation of many of the diaries and biographies of the generals of the World War, and the encounter of the sage Odysseus with Nausicaa might be the landing of a picnic party from a launch at Repulse Bay. Surely then, we might infer, if we want to train statesmen, all we have to do is to set them down to read history, and it cannot make any difference whether the history is ancient or modern. And perhaps novels would do as well.

Stated thus, we are at once aware that any man chosen because he had read the most history or the largest number of novels would be most unlikely to make good in any crisis of real life. He would naturally rely on precedents, and he would infallibly apply the wrong precedents. Why?

It will be noticed that the very terms of our question take for granted that the present state of human nature, which our studies will suggest has not altered for some thousands of years, is bad. It is bad in comparison with some ideal "yardstick" of which we are conscious, and which we take for granted will be so familiar to everybody else that it does not need to be defined. It is in fact something which is just as inherent in the human being as what we call "human nature" itself. The yardstick must then itself be a part of human nature, which cannot be so bad after all. And that, as Euclid used to say, "is absurd."

Is it possible that we have, without any metaphysics, stumbled on the riddle of humanity, and on its solution? That badness is inconsistent with what we know of the heroism and self-sacrifice which always accompanies the cruelty and selfishness, and somehow washes it out as the cleansing sea washes out the traces of our picnics and the sand castles that we build in our play? That is, such castles as we have not ourselves already knocked to pieces for no other reason than that they were finished? That at any rate is the theme of a famous book, "The Decline of the West," which we were all reading a few years ago. It is quite possible that human nature is neither bad nor good, but merely absurd.

While there he established the "Orfeu" of the Portugal Club. On May 22 of that year he received notice of his transfer to Managua, taking up his appointment on October 1, and serving there till August 2, 1934, when he left for Portugal on leave. On March 12 of this year he was appointed Consul General for Portugal at Singapore and was a few days later re-appointed to Hong Kong, arriving here on May 21.

Dr. Laborinho has contributed a considerable number of articles to both the Brazilian and Portuguese press on literary and colonial topics. He is the holder of a Red Cross decoration.

JAPANESE PARTY IN SHANGHAI

Varied Round of Functions

Shanghai, Yesterday.
The Japanese economic investigation party organised under the auspices of the Nippon Dempo News Agency arrived here from Nanking late yesterday afternoon. The party was met at the station by Mr. Wang Chang-chung, a representative of Shanghai Municipal Government, and the officials of the Japanese Consulate here.

The members of the party will call on Mayor Wu Teh-chien, of Shanghai, Mr. Ariyoshi, the Japanese Ambassador to China, the Japanese Consul-General in Shanghai and other Japanese officials this morning, following which they will be sight-seeing in the civic centre of Greater Shanghai. In the evening, they will be entertained at a dinner given by Mayor Wu at the Hungarilou Restaurant. The Mayor will also give a formal reception at his private residence at noon on Sunday.

SUCCESSFUL FETE AT KOWLOON TONG

ENJOYABLE FUNCTION BY ANGLICAN CHURCH

FUN OF THE FAIR IN EVIDENCE

ALL the fun of the fair was available at the Kowloon Tong Anglican Church's Garden Fete which was held in the grounds of the church yesterday afternoon, and attracted a very large number of people.

The function was distinguished by the presence of the Hon. Sir Henry and Lady Pollock, the Rt. Rev. R. O. Hall, Bishop of Victoria, and Mrs. Hall, the Rev. J. R. Higgs, Vicar of St. Andrew's, and Mrs. Higgs, the Rev. H. W. Baines, Dr. H. D. and Mrs. Matthews, Miss J. D. Sawyer, Headmistress of the Diocesan Girls' School, and Mr. and Mrs. P. Sin.

When Lady Pollock, who performed the opening ceremony, arrived, she was welcomed by the Rev. L. Nash and members of the Garden Fete Committee, while a guard of honour of the Wolf Cub Pack attached to the Church. The Bishop welcomed Lady Pollock, who, in opening the Fete, said:

Lady Pollock's Opening Speech
"It gives me very much pleasure to have been asked to open this Garden Fete to-day. Being at home last year I missed the first Fete, so you must forgive me if I go over a little of the old ground again."

"As a member of the Cathedral Council I had the privilege of hearing the very first suggestions made of the need, in the future, of a church in Kowloon Tong."

"The Bishop and Mr. Halward were very confident that such a need must come, and after much discussion it was decided that at least it would be wise to ask the Government for a site, and so stake a claim against the time when the need should arise."

"The Government offered us various sites. A Kowloon Tong Church Committee was formed, but was not on that Committee, but somehow I always managed to be there when they were inspecting those sites. I think it was because

FIVE YEARS AGO

(Extracts from the Sunday Herald of November 2, 1930.)

In a First Division soccer match South China beat the Police by the odd goal in five. The Police should have shared the points, but Fraser failed to convert one of the two penalties awarded them. Fung King-chong, Ip Pak-wa and Chan Yu-tim scored for the Chinese, while Fraser and McGraevy netted for the Police.

In the First Division of the Cricket League the Hong Kong Cricket Club were held to a draw by the Indian Recreation Club. A. K. Minu and O. Ismail were associated in a remarkable ninth-wicket partnership that realized 96 runs, which is believed to be a local record in official matches.

In the final of the Colony Singles Lawn Bowls Championship at the Kowloon Cricket Club A. M. Holland beat R. F. Luz, the holder, by 21 shots to 14, while in the final of the Royal Spey Cup competition Kowloon Docks (Hedley, Culven, Greig and Lapsley), beat Craigengower Cricket Club (Neves, Arculli, Rumlahn and Bradbury) by 25 shots to 14, to win the cup for the first time.

St. Andrew's Church, Kowloon, was the scene of a pretty wedding when Mr. F. S. W. Smith, a prominent member of the Kowloon Cricket Club, was married to Miss Elsie Earl of Lewisham, Kent, who had recently arrived in the Colony.

The party will be the guests of honour at a dinner party given by the local Nippon Dempo News Agency on the evening of Thursday next.—Central News Agency.

it was so intensely interesting that I could not keep away, although at the time I think we felt that it might be long before a church could materialise. However, a site was chosen, and the Bishop and Mr. Halward continued to dream and visualise the church-to-be.

"I always feel we came to this Church House by direct guidance; nothing could have been found more suitable for our purpose, and the fact that it had never been occupied was an added charm."

"Owing to a band of loyal and faithful workers who have thrown themselves heart and soul into this service for God, this Church House to-day is in every respect a miniature church with all a church's various activities—its regular services, its Sunday School, its Guild of Martha and Mary, its Men's Fellowship, a V.D.M.A. Group, a Boy Cub Pack, its various meetings and debates, and an excellent magazine of its own."

Dreams Come True

"The progress made in the last two years has been simply wonderful; and has proved beyond a doubt the need for a real church. And that is why this Fete to-day is so important. Until now the new church has been more or less a castle in the air—but the time has come to put foundations under that castle, and to realise that our dreams and visions of a church in Kowloon Tong are coming true."

"There is much to be done. We must all help—don't be deterred by thinking that the little you can afford to spend could not help to build a church."

"Every little helps. Small beginnings often have great endings. Think of the acorn. An acorn is not much to look at—pretty, yes, small, and very dainty, but in the heart of that acorn there is a wonderful secret, and in the fulness of time that small acorn becomes a mighty towering oak."

"So also, I think the prayer for an Anglican church in Kowloon Tong contained in itself its own fulfilment."

"I have much pleasure in declaring the Fete open, and I wish it great success."

Lady Pollock was then presented with a lavender satchel and a basket of flowers by members of the Sunday School and the Wolf Cubs, after which she was conducted on an inspection of the stalls and side shows.

List of Helpers

The following were the helpers who contributed to the success of the afternoon.

Home Produce Stall, Mesdames Laurence and Fenner; Fancy Goods, Mesdames Kow and Fletcher; Woolfies Stall, Mesdames Lay and Allan and Miss Willis; Lavender Stall, Mesdames Jex and Wong; Sweet Stall, Mrs. Easterbrook and Wolf Cubs; Toy Stall, Mesdames Bertram and Credland; Treasure Hunt, Miss D. J. Lee and Messrs. Cunningham and Johnson; Fish Pond, Mrs. Booker, Miss Cheung and Mr. Tam; Lucky Dips, the Messrs. Sue and Lang. Sideshows were run by the Men's Fellowship.

The Committee of the Garden Fete wish to express their gratitude for the help they received from the following:

Hell
Finken-zeller in "King's Waltz"

AMERICANS have always kept a watchful eye on the German films and have never lost time in getting hold of any director or actor who produced an outstanding success there, as the example of Ernst Lubitsch, Emil Jannings, and many others, shows. The picture "angle" is also a product of the German pictures and was, and still is, much exploited by the Americans.

The German theatre-going public is one of the most serious in the world. Not even in England would people sit through hours and hours of Shakespeare as patiently as they do in Germany. German taste is more fastidious too; artistic qualities become almost more important than entertainment—sometimes too much so. Indeed, that is why German pictures have not always been approved by the box-office abroad. But they have learned, and in such recent Ufa productions as "The King's Waltz", "One Too Many On Board", "The Green Domino", and "Light Cavalry" they have struck the happy mean.

Max Reinhardt is now in America and has made a film of Shakespeare's "Midsummer Night's Dream." This film, which perhaps we may hope to see in Hong Kong in the not too distant future, has been acclaimed as one of the finest ever made.

IN Hong Kong the cinema programmes are dominated by American pictures and, with British pictures ranking second, there is little opportunity to see the productions of other countries. Occasionally French pictures find their way into one of the smaller picture houses, but they are usually of the nondes-cript type, and none of the really outstanding pictures of Rene Claire like the "Le Million" or
"Sous Les Toits De Paris" have ever been shown here. We miss, too, most of the fine German and Russian films. This is a great pity, because the achievements of both these countries are a constant source of inspiration.
"The Armoured Cruiser Potem-kin" will remain an unforgettable picture for all who saw it, and those who have seen the Ufa picture "The Blue Angel," with Emil Jannings, can only regret that these productions have not a more prominent place in the programmes of the local theatres.

It is true that the first German pictures usually lacked the easy entertaining qualities of the American pictures, and their humour was, as a rule, too heavy for the Anglo-Saxon taste. But since the war their directors have learned much, and the latest German musical pictures, if not as lavish as some of the American "Revues," are at least as entertaining and infinitely fresher and freer from movie platitudes, besides, being out-

Almost in Confidence

Mr. Dern Honoured

A VERY pleasant dinner was given last Monday by Consul-General and Mrs. Hoover in honour of Mr. George H. Dern, who was passing through Hong Kong with his wife, son, and party. Both rooms on the top floor of the Peninsula Hotel were used; in one the guests were received and in the other the dining tables were arranged in the form of a U, designed to signify Unity. In the curve of the U sat H.E. the Officer Administering the Government, the Hon. Mr. N. L. Smith, the Secretary of War and Mrs. Dern, Mr. and Mrs. Hoover, Commodore and Mrs. Sedgwick, and Sir Atholl and Lady McGregor. Among the other guests present were Sir William and Lady Shenton, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Taggart, Mr. and Mrs. Gray, Dr. and Mrs. Black, Mr. and Mrs. Shields, Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Henderson, Paym.-Lt.-Comdr. and Mrs. Sweny, Mr. T. B. Williams, Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Stanton, Mr. L. H. Gourley, Mr. J. C. Pool, Mr. M. N. Cootes and his mother and sister, who have but recently arrived in the Colony on holiday from America. Of course most of the American community was present. Unfortunately Mrs. L. Dunbar was indisposed and so was unable to be there.

Many Beautiful Gowns

TO talk of the ladies and their gowns is no easy matter, for one and all seemed to be looking their best. Mrs. Hoover was particularly lovely in a dress of gold colour, and Mrs. Dern was very smart in white. Mrs. D. M. Biggar also favoured gold cloth and Mrs. Taggart and Mrs. D. Fraser looked well in blue. Mrs. H. F. Sommers also wore blue, but she was not really limited to one colour as her frock was of changeable taffeta. Mrs. Shields wore an unusual frock of grey flowers on white with attractive trimming. Mrs. Black and Mrs. Cootes wore smart black gowns.

Mrs. Robertson Home Again

THIS week we welcome back Mrs. R. Robertson who has just returned from a holiday in Scotland. She is very enthusiastic about her trip, which, both going and coming, was via Canada. Honolulu fascinated her and she declares she will never forget her first impression of it.

Mrs. Robertson found Vancouver and its surroundings particularly lovely, and was greatly impressed with the spacious new University that is being built there. Leaving Montreal they had an exciting time ahead— heavy fog and tremendous icebergs that looked like ice polar bears floating round and round the ship! On the way back she was on the same boat as Leslie Howard, the famous screen star, and his young son, who were returning from London to America. She also met a well-known Canadian artist, Carl Ahrens, with whom, being herself an artist, she had many interesting conversations. She was able to pay a brief visit to Chicago on her return trip, so certainly no precious time was wasted. Little Sheila Robertson has remained behind to go to school in Scotland.

Motoring Holiday On Continent

AMONG the homecomings are two very well-known members of the Hong Kong community, Dr. and Mrs. A. R. Wellington. They have been enjoying a motoring holiday on the Continent.

Mrs. Williamson has also just returned from a three weeks' holiday in Japan, which she enjoyed in company with her sister from New Zealand.

His Maiden Over!

ONE of our most prominent men about town who is renowned in Club circles as never being stuck for an answer was completely floored at a dinner party the other night.

(Top)—Mrs. B. Nocht, Mrs. A. Gipperich, wife of the German Consul, Mr. G. Hesse, and Mrs. M. Stoller, wife of the acting German Minister to Siam, photographed at Kai Tak aerodrome on the arrival here of the giant Lufthansa Junker passenger plane en route for Shanghai.

He spilled the salt and his hostess told him he must throw it over his shoulder. He did so and part of the salt fell down the back of his low-gowned dinner partner. She twitched her shoulders coyly as the gritty grains slid down and remarked slyly, "I'm afraid you can't catch me that way, Mr...."

Luncheon Party At Shek O

MR. and Mrs. L. Dunbar gave a very successful tiffin party out at Shek O last Monday for the United States Secretary of War and Mrs. Dern and their party. Mrs. Dunbar admitted to having felt very nervous beforehand about the choice of Shek O for the tiffin, for, this being a time of such capricious weather, it might well have been the sort of day that converts Shek O into a place of untold gloom. But all was well. The sun shone and Shek O was at its best. It could scarcely have been a more perfect day. The guests from America were delighted with the place, its picturesque greenness and its lovely fresh air. The party was thus most pleasant, and all were loth to leave when it was impossible to linger longer.

Coming Back From Leave

THE outgoings from the Colony are getting fewer now that we really anticipate a little more chill in the air, but the incomings are still a source of interest. Mr. A. S. Abbot, the manager of Kelly and Walsh, returned recently after six months' holiday abroad. Most of his time was spent in England, but much to his joy he also found time to visit Switzerland.

Mr. G. Schults of Melchers and Co. will be returning shortly from a holiday in Germany. And, unless she has been tempted to enjoy a longer stay at home, he will be accompanied by his wife and their young son.

Mme. Marty, the artist, will also be returning during this month. She has spent her time in London and Paris, so will certainly come with lots of new ideas and interesting things to talk about.

About TOWN

Air Conditioning

THERE can be no doubt that Mr. Mend was right when he told the Rotary Club that any building now erected which did not at least provide for the subsequent installation of an air-conditioning plant would soon be obsolete. It is said that even some of the workmen's flat buildings being put up in London are air-conditioned. The modern plant is far better capable of control than the central heating arrangements which used to give the average Englishman the feeling of being stifled in an American house, and chilled when he went out into the air. But at any rate the idea of a uniform temperature throughout a house was a move in the right direction. There are country houses in England where the ravages of income tax and death duties, and the necessary economies, confine the family to the use of one living room during the winter, leaving suites of rooms vacant except during the summer months. Considering the nuisance of the heavy mists, much stranger things have happened than that with proper air control the tide of fashion might change from the Peak once more towards the middle levels of Hong Kong, or even lower.

The Conquest Of Nature

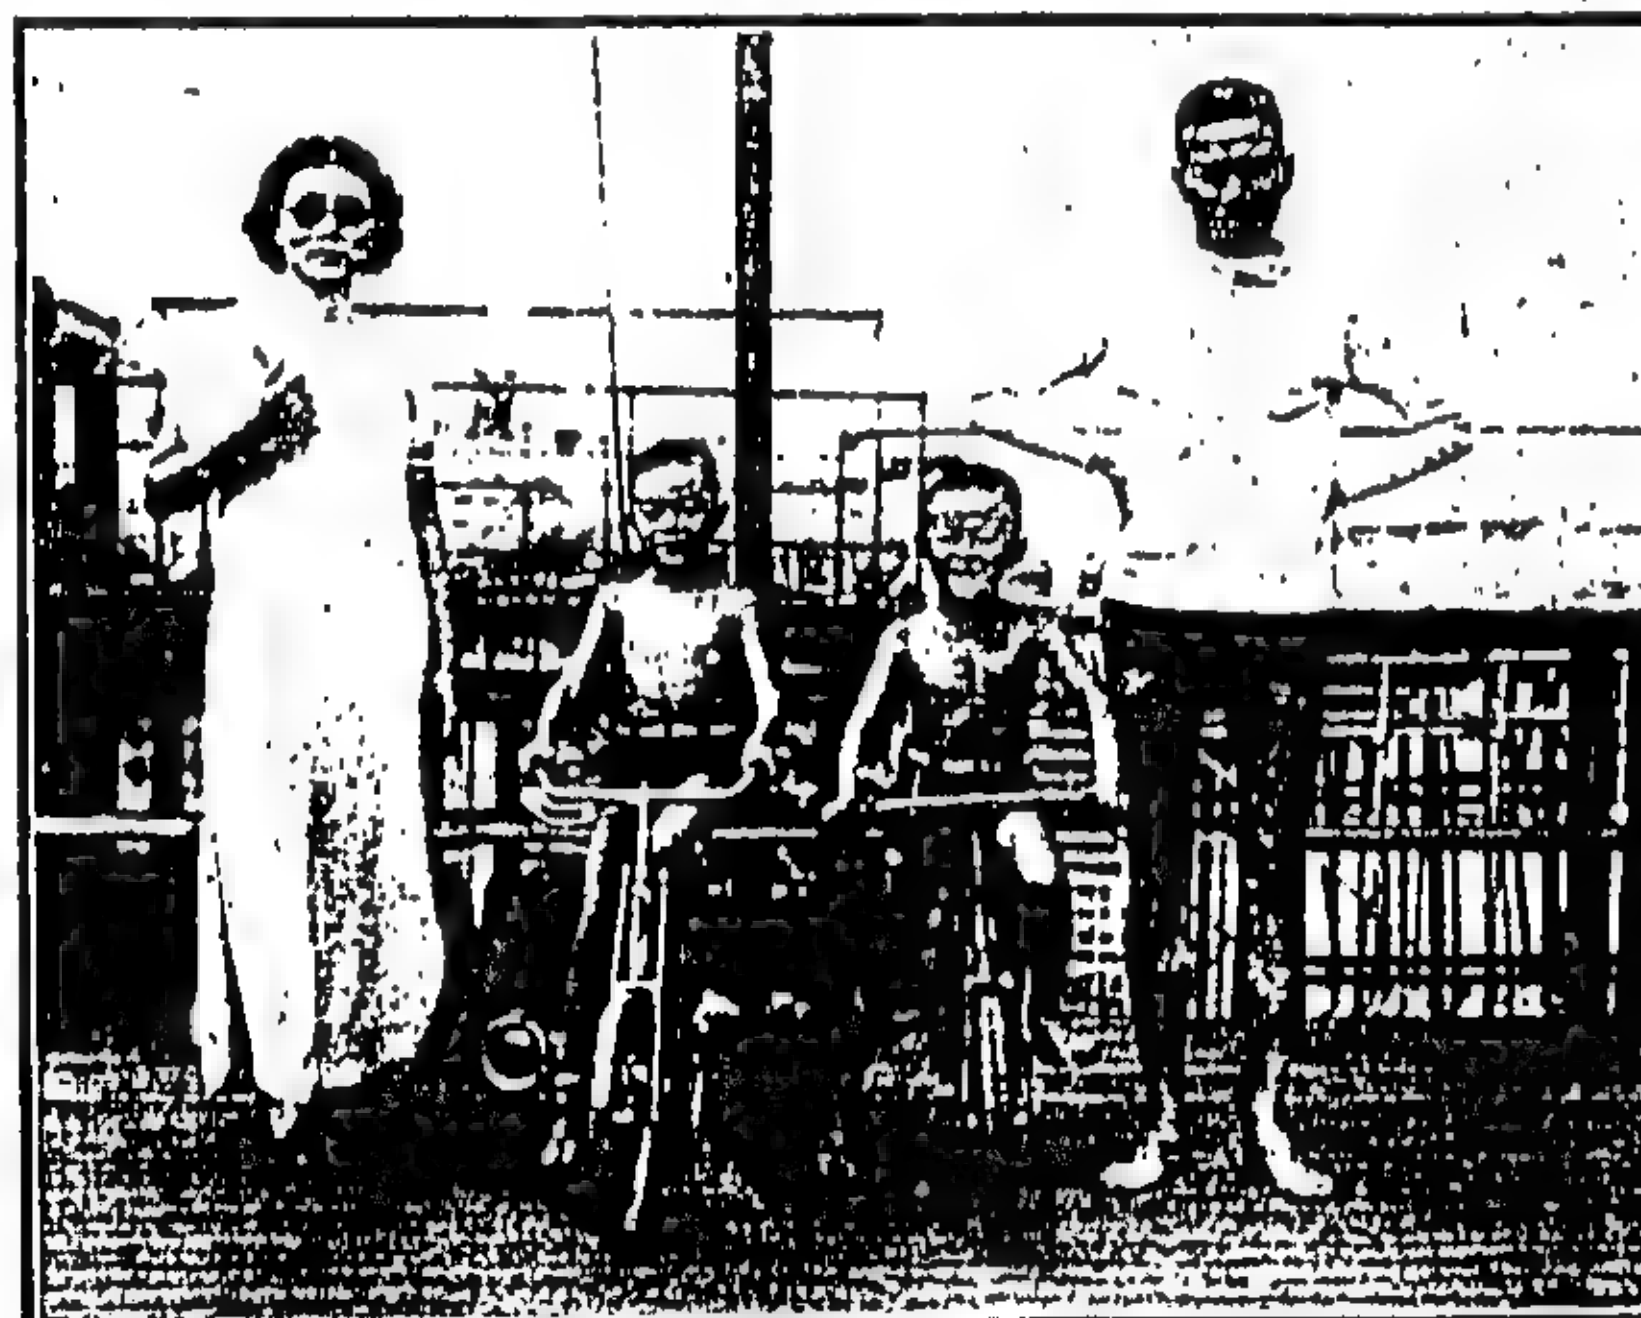

CONTROL of the air we breathe, at any rate while inside a building, is another step towards the human conquest of nature. We have the memory of the old subservience enshrined in the name of what is still one of our busiest streets, "Ice House Street", to which one's predecessors used to hasten to buy blocks of ice brought down from the North by the old coasting clippers. Nowadays all the new flats have a refrigerator installed by the landlord, and we do not need to worry to finish up our food within the twenty four hours. Nor do we expect dysentery and similar diseases to be a daily menace. No doubt electricity will ultimately be much cheaper, as it has become under the "grid system" in England. Incidentally, when electricity is cheap enough to expel the old kitchen grate, and with it the steady stream of smoke from countless domestic chimneys, there will be a saving in London alone of about £1,000,000 a year in damage done to buildings by the eroding acids. Westminster Abbey has recently been resurfaced at a high cost. Much of the higher parts of the walls and buttresses had reached a stage when you could push a walking stick right into the stone. And even the damage to buildings cost would have to be greatly increased by the daily washing bill which must be enormous, and which without smoke and soot might probably be halved.

The Tropics Score

IT is very noticeable that while all the inventions are made in cool climates, it is the hot places that gain most. The conquest of the villainous anopheles has made many places where people still draw "climatic allowance" quite healthy—the more so as the motor car has made it possible to live on the top of a hill instead of down in the valleys. Frozen meat brought an outlet for much trade that previously could find no market; and recently the improved chilling chambers on the Australasian lines brought such a flood of supplies into competition with the homegrown product as to upset all the Ottawa calculations. With good solid walls and mosquito nets and air-conditioned rooms many places that used to be notorious at the back of beyond will become quite attractive, and even fashionable resorts.—COMMENTATOR.

Kengelbacher's Brief Stay

H. KENGELBACHER, who used to play for the K.C.C. in the Lawn Tennis League and who was transferred to Saigon, arrived in the Colony last Sunday and left again on Wednesday for Shanghai on transfer.

He tells me that Tam Yee-fung, former runner-up in the Colony singles championship, gave a great display against Henri Cochet—who recently gave exhibitions at the K.C.C.—extending him to 7-5 at Hanoi.

Miss Weller Returning

MISS J. WELLER, the "Y" Ladies' former hockey goal-keeper, who has been in England for the past 18 months, is returning to the Colony in about three weeks' time. I hear that she has been playing hockey in England.

Miss Violet Bradbury, the "Y" Ladies' right-winger, is leaving for England in February next and will be badly missed by the team.

Ernie Strange Back

AMONG the passengers who returned to the Colony last Wednesday by the s.s. Corfu was Ernie Strange, who played for the Club yesterday against the Lincolns at Sookampoo.

He tells me that he played for Nunhead, as previously stated in these columns, but that he, after having been injured in the right-shoulder and having but two months to go before his return to the Colony, "packed up."

Marques Bound for Shanghai

E. M. Marques, the V.R.C. breast-stroke swimming champion and Interporter, played his last football game for St. Joseph's yesterday. He is leaving for Shanghai this week.

Marques, who has represented the Colony at swimming both here and in Shanghai, started his football with the Saints in the Junior Division, but later went over to the Recreio to play in the First Division as goal-keeper. His position was this year taken by R. Marques and he returned to his old Club, with whom he has played in the Third Division at half-back, though he was reserve goal-keeper for the first team. As he only rejoined the Saints after the start of the present season he sportingly refused to play for the first team unless it was very necessary.

Kwok Stays in Shanghai

KWOK Chun-hang, the Melbourne Centenary, Victorian, Australian, Interport, Colony and China National breast-stroke swimming champion, did not return to the Colony with the Kwangtung contingent, but is remaining in Shanghai to continue his studies. This means an irreparable loss to Colony swimming for next year's Interport.

Loyal Macao Hockey Player

F. Nolasco, the former Macao right-winger, who is now playing for the Argonauta hockey eleven in the Mamak Hockey Tournament, tells me that he will not represent any local side against Macao if he is not allowed to play for the latter!

Mrs. J. F. F. Kayll, the Colony lady tennis champion, who was seen in one of our two hockey matches for the "Y" Ladies last season, is expected to return to the hockey field within a few weeks' time.

Rugby Player's Departure

PHILIP Gardner, who played rugby for the Club last year, left for England, via the United States, last Wednesday. He was connected with the building of the new Hong Kong Bank.

Lim Making Good Progress

THE University football team are missing the services of C. H. Lim, their goal-keeper. He has been ill for the past fortnight, but is now making rapid progress and should be soon playing for them again.

Eastern's Shield Hopes

THE Eastern Athletic Association are now quite content to carry on with their fixtures in the Second Division with the players they now have, but I understand that their Shield team will be greatly strengthened by the inclusion of several good players from Canton who would have played for them regularly had the team been admitted to the Senior League.

Owing to pressure of work Mr. F. H. Barnes is resigning from the Council of the Hong Kong Football Association. His place as representative of the Club de Recreio will be taken by Mr. C. M. Alves, the Hong Kong Jockey Club's official handicapper.

DATE IS FIXED FOR ECONOMIC SANCTIONS

Clearing Agreements Discussed

BUT MANY DIFFERENCES OF VIEWPOINTS

"SUNDAY HERALD" SPECIAL

Geneva, Yesterday. Reports of the eagerly-awaited Anglo-French deliberations between Sir Samuel Hoare and M. Laval yesterday state that the result was very satisfactory.

The two Governments agreed that the sanctions conference will to-day definitely fix an early date for the commencement of economic sanctions. Either Sir Samuel Hoare or M. Laval will then address the Assembly, putting on record that at the moment

RESTRICTION OF FUEL CONSUMPTION

Rome, Yesterday. In order to comply with the Duce's instructions for the restriction of consumption of fuel, etc., the State Railways have decided to effect a gradual reduction in the number of passenger trains, beginning on Wednesday next, when 46 trains will be suppressed, including several expresses.—Reuter.

no further basis for further negotiations exists, but that the delegates will all assemble again at Geneva immediately concrete proposals are made.

From authoritative British quarters it is denied that any proposals have been drawn up for submission to the Italian delegate. The discussions of the question of clearing agreements between Italy and various other States were continued yesterday afternoon before the Committee of Eighteen, but as the differences between the viewpoints of the Little Entente and the Balkan Union and Switzerland, on the one side, and France and Britain, on the other, proved irreconcilable, M. Titulescu undertook to discuss the matter further with the British and French delegations and to submit new proposals to the Committee of Eighteen to-day.

DATE FIXED

Geneva: The afternoon of Friday, November 16, has been fixed by the working committee of the sanctions conference as the time when the application of economic sanctions will begin. In all probability this decision will be confirmed by the plenary conference to-night, whereupon the present session will be declared ended. (Continued on Page 12)

ATTACK ON WANG A COMMUNIST PLOT YOUNG GIRL REPORTER ARRESTED

FORMER MEMBER OF RED GROUP

Nanking, Yesterday.

After a careful examination of the would-be assassin of Mr. Wang Ching-wei at the opening of the sixth plenary session of the Central Executive Council of the Kuomintang yesterday, the police headquarters have issued an official bulletin stating that the attempt on Mr. Wang's life was a well-organised plot of Chinese Communists. Sun was formerly a sergeant in the famous 19th Route Army.

Unless complications develop in the next 24 hours Mr. Wang Ching-wei has an even chance of recovering. An official who left the bedside at 30 minutes past midnight this morning said that Mr. Wang was sleeping peacefully. Meanwhile doctors are trying to save for questioning Sun Feng-min.

Mingled with the general gloom over Mr. Wang's ill-fortune was relief at the news that Messrs. Kwan Nank-wang and Chang Chi were not injured. The only other casualty was a janitor, wounded in the leg by a stray bullet. He was admitted to hospital and is now out of danger.

Following a gruelling examination of the arrested persons, eight in all, the authorities are convinced that the outrage was the outcome of a well-organised Communist plot.

RETRENCHMENT PROPOSALS FOR SWISS NATION

Huge Budget Deficit Foreseen

LARGE FALL IN CUSTOMS RECEIPTS LAST YEAR

"SUNDAY HERALD" SPECIAL

Berne, Yesterday. The Swiss Federal Council passed the 1936 State budget estimates last night, these showing a prospective deficit of 77,000,000 Swiss francs, against an anticipated deficit of 29,000,000 during the current year.

The unsatisfactory development of the financial situation is attributed chiefly to a reduction in revenue of 53,000,000 francs owing to the decline of Customs duties collected. Besides this, various outlays, aggregating 25,000,000, are due in 1936, for example, for repairing the Alpine roads. Thus the total accumulated deficit will amount to 102,000,000 francs, which will include amortisations and reserves of 41.4 millions. It is proposed to cope with the deficit by rigorous retrenchment, and thereby altogether about 125,000,000 francs will be saved.—Trans-Ocean Service.

LLOYD GEORGE ATTACKS GOVERNMENT

SANCTIONS PROPOSED BY LEAGUE ARE MOCKERY OF COVENANT

London, Yesterday.

"The sanctions proposed by the League are a mockery of the Covenant," declared Mr. Lloyd George in an election broadcast last night. He said: "Our Ministers have gone to the conference with a divided purpose. They have been hopelessly outmatched by the resolute and astute men with whom they have been confronted. Mussolini and Laval have completely fooled them all round."

Mr. Lloyd George affirmed that the Government had failed conspicuously in the three foundations upon which peace depended, namely, the guarantee of international rights and fair dealings, the ending of the trade currency warfare, and the securing of a general reduction in armaments. The Government had delayed again and again until it was too late, "and when they look like acting they hesitate, falter and weaken."

347 STRAIGHT FIGHTS

London: The National Government candidates will have 347 straight fights with the Labour Opposition, 22 with the Liberals and five with the Independents, according to the present indications. There will be 139 three-cornered and eight four-cornered contests; 22 unopposed candidates will be returned; and 33 seats are not being contested by National Government candidates.

The first election nomination has been lodged by Oxford University, where the candidates are Lord Cecil and Mr. C. R. C. Crutwell (Conservative), Professor J. L. Stocks (Labour) and Mr. A. P. Herbert, the well-known author, (Independent Nationalist). The previous members were Lord Hugh Cecil and Sir Charles Oman (Conservative).—Reuter.

ADVANCE BEYOND MAKALLE

SOMALI CHIEF TAKEN IN CHAINS TO HARRAR

ACCUSED OF BEING SPY

Rome, Yesterday.

Ras Gufza, who deserted to the Italians some time ago, has undertaken a punitive expedition against his fellow-countrymen in a frenzy of grief and rage when he learned, through a secret runner, that his and his men's women and children and other relatives were slaughtered wholesale. This was an overwhelming blow after the tribesmen had heard that if captured by the Abyssinians, they would be killed in the manner reserved for regicides, under which the captive is swathed in linen coated with wax and honey, and then set on fire. Runners brought the news on the evening of October 30.

Ras Gufza's men, under the command of Cagras Machebeli, marched to a point 65 miles south of the Italian lines, which took them beyond Makalle. Nothing has been heard at Adigrat in the meantime.

Ras Gufza is eager to rejoin his second wife, who is expecting a baby and from whom he has heard nothing since he went over to the Italians. It is reported that his stone palace in Makalle, built in the European style, has been sacked by the Abyssinians and used for an ensconement for machine-guns.

Harrar: Ahmed Hassi, a Somali chief whom the Emperor decorated last May, has been brought here in chains from Goralah with 12 tribesmen, all of whom are accused of being spies on behalf of Italy. The situation at Goralah is obscure.

FIVE KILLED IN ACTION

Rome: It is officially announced that 193 officers and men of the Italian army died in East Africa between October 1 and October 31, of whom only five were killed in action.

EARLIER REPORT DENIED

Addis Ababa: The report announcing 3,500 casualties, including the commander killed, near Ual Ual, mentioned yesterday, is officially denied.—Reuter.

GERMANY AND THE FAR EAST

Cultural Identities Recognised

"SUNDAY HERALD" SPECIAL

Berlin, Yesterday. The Chinese Professor Te Chen, chief of the Sociology Department of the National Tsing Hua University at Peking, who is at present travelling for the Chinese Government on a mission of study in a number of the leading countries of the world, paid a visit to the National Socialist Racial Political Office to inform himself at an authoritative source about the measures taken by the new regime in Germany to influence the future population movements of the nation.

In the course of a discussion that took place it was established that in principle identity exists between the present Germany and the great nations of the Far East in recognition of the worth of race, so that on a basis of mutual respect an exchange of cultural and economic values is by all means possible and worthy of promotion.—Trans-Ocean Service.

COUNT VINCI TRANSFERRED TO MASSAWA

Italian Troops Take Town Of Hausien

NO RESISTANCE OFFERED

"SUNDAY HERALD" SPECIAL

Djibouti, Yesterday. The former Italian Minister at Addis Ababa, Count Vinci, has been ordered by the Italian Government to proceed to Massawa, together with the 14 Italian Legation and consular officials from various places in Abyssinia, who have all asked to be employed on the northern front. Count Vinci will leave for Massawa on November 10.

HAUSIEN TAKEN

Asmara: Two battalions of Italian troops and native soldiers, commanded by Lieutenant-Colonel Ruggiero, attached to the armed camp at Adagamus, undertook a reconnoitring sally to the small town of Hausien, 20 miles away. No resistance was encountered anywhere.

They reported that the women and officials of the Coptic, Muslimans of the town made signs of submission and brought the Italian troops presents of fruits and honey. The Italian tricolour was hoisted in the market place and handbills were then distributed, assuring the population of the peaceful intentions of the Italian army.

The commander made a speech to the people, preparing them for the occupation that would follow in several days. Prosperity and justice would begin, he said.—Trans-Ocean Service.

NEW HIGH SCHOOL FOR GERMANY

Famous Seminary To Be Converted

"SUNDAY HERALD" SPECIAL

Berlin, Yesterday. The world-famous seminary for oriental languages in Berlin, founded in 1837 by Bismarck, is to be transformed into a high school for foreigners. The winter half-year 1935-36 will be treated as a transition period. Examinations will be held for those courses lasting four half-years called "examinations in practical knowledge of languages and countries", and the courses will be continued in the Institute when it becomes a high school.

But beyond this half-year the courses of study are projected to end in an examination for a diploma and an academic degree.—Trans-Ocean Service.

Italy Prepares For Sanctions

Rome, Yesterday.—Signor Mussolini received in the Palazzo Venezia yesterday the technical committee of the Industrial Federation, under the chairmanship of Senator Volpi, and set forth the principles that would be followed so as to meet effectively the sanctions shortly to be applied.

Senator Volpi submitted a report about the steps already taken by the committee for the more useful employment of raw materials obtainable in Italy itself and moreover on the possibilities of rational exploitation, all technical possibilities and the effective regulation of the buying and control of production of raw materials. He also outlined the plan of work for the different branches of industry during the next few months.

The members of the committee then discussed the measures that would have to be adopted to carry out Senator Volpi's plan. Signor Mussolini took note of these proposals and laid down the principles on which the committee would continue its labours.—Trans-Ocean Service.

EGYPT'S REPLY

Geneva: Among the non-members of the League of Nations Egypt is the second State, following the United States, to reply to the enquiry of the League of Nations concerning the attitude that would be taken up towards sanctions.

The answer states: "The Egyptian Government has decided in principle to agree to the application of economic and financial sanctions in the Italo-Abyssinian conflict, and within the scope possible will enforce the measures determined by the League of Nations."—Trans-Ocean Service.

AGREEMENT REACHED

Geneva, Later: At 1 a.m. today, after a five-hour sitting, the sub-committee representing Britain, France, Rumania, Yugoslavia, Spain and Greece, reached an agreement dealing with the cases of countries with clearing agreements with Italy which have large balances to their credit, especially Rumania. The question has been holding up the final arrangement for enforcing sanctions.

The agreement provides that a date be definitely fixed (probably November 14 or 15), on which all purchases from Italy will cease. Outstanding debts will be specially considered by the committee for mutual support.

GENEVA CONVERSATIONS

London: The Foreign Secretary, Sir Samuel Hoare, and the French Premier, M. Laval, had conversations in Geneva yesterday. It is understood in League circles that the fullest agreement was reached on the collaboration of the two Governments, both in the application of measures in fulfilment of their obligations under Article XVI and in the search for a solution of the Italo-Ethiopian conflict by way of an agreed settlement between the parties in conformity with the principles of the League.

It is anticipated that a statement will be made to-day regarding the efforts with which both the Governments have already been associated, to find a basis of negotiation, and which have so far failed to produce useful or hopeful results.

IMPORT PROHIBITIONS

In the meantime the financial, legal and economic sub-committees have been studying the reservations made by several Governments in connection with the Co-ordination Committee's recommendation for the prohibition of imports from Italy by the League Powers. It is hoped that it may be possible to-day for the Co-ordination Committee, which will act on the report of the Committee of Eighteen, to appoint a date for the putting of this recommendation into execution by the League States in concert. November 15 is freely mentioned as the likely date.

It is suggested that the Co-ordination Committee might meet again some time after that date to consider how far the measures already undertaken were proving effective in shortening the war in East Africa, and whether any further measures should be recommended to the Governments of covenant-forcing States.

FOUR STATES RELUCTANT

According to a Geneva message Austria, Albania, Hungary and the Dominican Republic are the only countries which have not yet replied to the League of Nations regarding the imposition of sanctions against Italy.—British Wireless Service.

Microphone Telephones
In Cabins

WORLD'S RECORD FOR LAUNCHING LIFEBOAT

London, Yesterday.
The announcement by the Cunard-White Star Company that May 27 next will be the first sailing date of the new liner Queen Mary indicates that satisfactory progress is being made in the fitting of the giant ship.

Some 4,000 skilled workmen are busy on board, apart from the many thousands engaged throughout the country in the manufacture of equipment.

Two large swimming pools and an enclosed promenade deck 1-250 ft. long are ready for completion.

Twenty-five public rooms, the decorative schemes for which are already being worked out, will be unusually large.

The first class dining room will hold 900 passengers and the roof is 30 feet high.

Elaborate radio and telephonic arrangements are included in the equipment. Microphone telephones will be fitted in first class cabins which will enable passengers to put through radio-telephone calls to any part of the world.

"DOUBLE" UNBACKED AT VALLEY: $3,656.40 CARRIED FORWARD

NIGHT STAR UPSETS CALCULATIONS

$211 WIN DIVIDEND RETURNED

BEGINNER'S LUCK WINS HALF MILE SCURRY

BAG TOR AND RACING HEART RUN UNPLACED

The Eleventh Extra Race Meeting at the Valley yesterday was featured by the return of Mr. Gilbert Harriman, who rode The Deemster into third place, but was noteworthy for the absence of Mr. B. A. Proulx, who, it is understood, was in bed with fever on Friday night.

A large crowd was treated to an interesting afternoon's sport, upsets being provided in many of the races. The "double" went unbacked, Beginner's Luck causing a surprise in the Sussex Handicap over half a mile — only 13 selected Night Star for the first leg, and $3,656.40 was thus carried forward to the next Meeting, a week next Saturday. The highest dividend of the day was paid by Night Star — $211.60 for a win and $47.20 for a place.

Mr. Norman Deitz and Mr. Donald Black headed the jockeys' list, each having two wins and a second in five starts, while Mr. Leo Frost had two wins and two thirds in five starts. Mr. Why and Mr. Li Shiu Pang shared the honours among the owners with a win and a second apiece.

All five entries accepted for the Surrey Handicap, Hetman being made a warm favourite against Ribble.

Hetman took the lead after a very fast start, with King's Bounty and Soldier of Germany on his tail. Ribble at once gave signs of not wanting to race, and, despite the fact that Mr. Davis was riding him very early on, he finished a poor third to Hetman and Soldier of Germany, who passed the tired King's Bounty in the home stretch to come within two lengths of Hetman.

Favourite Unplaced

The Suffolk Handicap produced one of the best finishes of the day. Young Chap, an outsider, just failing to shake off Belmont Star, the second favourite, a dead heat being a very fair result. Had Young Chap run straight over the last twenty yards, instead of boring in towards the stands, he would have won.

Double Chance, a hot favourite, was out of the barrier like a rocket, but, after leading Philanderer at the Rock, he failed to respond at all in the home straight and was beaten into fourth place. Boxing Eve made a good burst in the back straight, but it was only a flash in the pan.

Young Chap put in a great finish after Mr. Deitz had given him a reminder just after passing the Rock, when he was lying fifth, while Belmont Star, who had been lying fourth until the home stretch, was nicely handled by Mr. Black. Glad Eyes caused surprise with his powerful finish and paid his supporters $25.70 for a place.

Rose-Queen's Failure

Harvest View looked a perfect picture when he came out for the Hong Kong Griffins Cup, and it caused no surprise when he fully extended Pontiac Bay, after setting the pace for the first nine furlongs. Jockeyship won the race, Mr. Frost's waiting tactics, despite an ever increasing gap between himself and Harvest View and High Honour, securing a well merited success after a good finish.

Rose-Queen, left at the start and never quite in the picture, finished a poor third, while High Honour filled fourth place. Night View, who was pulling badly over the first half mile, did not relish a hard finish.

Soldier Of China Wins

Soldier of China registered a long-awaited win when he carried off the honours in the Kent Handicap. Bisto gave him a good run for his money and would probably have beaten him over another twenty yards. The heavily burdened Jungle Jim, always in a challenging position, did well to secure the minor placing ahead of Valorous, who was left at the start. Mr. Black's effort on Bisto was a very creditable one. A refreshing feature about his splendid progress is his continual use of his hands instead of the whip in a hard finish.

Falsely Run Race

Shooting Star provided a false race in the Nallah Nallah Handicap when he set a gruelling pace for seven furlongs and then just had sufficient reserve to stave off Racing Heart's challenge for third place. Night Star followed her stable-mate and, contrary to expectation, did not crack under the strain of a very fast pace and came through for a very fine win from Australian Boy, who had been on her heels throughout. Only 36 backers foresaw the result and were paid $211.60 and $74.20 for their enterprise.

Racing Heart and Bag Tor, joint favourites, were always too far in the rear, and were some four lengths behind the winner in a fast run race—it was only 1 2/5 secs. outside Scurry Face's record.

Cold Morning again badly disappointed, finishing last after a satisfactory start.

Mr. Wood's Second Win

The novices' race saw the downfall of another favourite when Tillium, who entered the straight some six lengths to the good against a very mediocre field, cracked up a furlong from home and was overhauled by Wembley Stag, who thus provided Mr. Wood with his second win at the Valley—his first success was on this pony.

Plain View, after an indifferent start, secured the minor placing, but did not move as well as was expected. Heart's Glory and Partnership again failed to impress.

Blacksmith Fails To Last

Blacksmith, the favourite, had a glorious opportunity of recording his first win when Mr. Pih got him away to a good start in the Sussex Handicap, but he failed to last and was caught on the post by Beginner's Luck (Mr. P. Botelho). The Deemster, who was taken out by Mr. Gilbert Harriman, making his first appearance since his operation last April, finished full of running in third place, ahead of Forge-master.

Helluvafella, who was on his toes when the gate went up, failed badly in the home stretch. None of the 10 supporters of Night Star in the first leg were able to "spot" Beginner's Luck for the second leg and the $3,656.40 pool was thus carried forward to the next Meeting.

Racing Boy's Fine Finish

Another splendid finish by Mr. Black was responsible for yet another upset when Pride of Tsingtao, a red hot favourite, was forced into third place in the Kent Handicap (second section). Always in a challenging position, Mr. Black brought the one-time favourite through perfectly in the home stretch to catch Great Hall, who took the lead at the Rock.

Mr. Norman Deitz, left, and Mr. Donald Black, right, shared the honours among the jockeys yesterday.

and secure the verdict by a neck. The pony paid $38.80 for his success. Spinaway was fourth in a slow run race.

SHIPMASTER
RESPONSIBLE FOR REPORTComdr. J. B. Newill As Complainant

FRENCH CAPTAIN FINED

"I am merely asking for a nominal fine because we wish to bring home the fact to the Messageries Maritimes that they cannot ignore the regulations of the port," said Comdr. J. B. Newill, when he appeared as complainant in the Kowloon Magistracy yesterday when Capt. Francois Antonini of the s.s. Chenonceaux was summoned on two separate counts of breach of the Dangerous Goods Ordinance.

It was stated that Capt. Antonini failed to make a report to the Harbour Authorities when he arrived in port on August 28 last with 800 casks of Carbide of Calcium on board and (2), having dangerous goods on his vessels, he failed to anchor at one of the Dangerous Goods Anchorages.

In pleading guilty to both summonses, Capt. Antonini said that he was not conversant with the regulations and added that the usual procedure, whenever he had any dangerous goods on board, was for the Shanghai office to advise the Hong Kong branch by cable and the latter would attend to all necessary details.

Master Responsible

Comdr. Nowill then told the Court that as the defendant had pleaded guilty, he would like to withdraw the second charge, but Mr. Wynne-Jones replied that he could not allow that as the defendant had been charged and had admitted the charges. Addressing Capt. Antonini, the Magistrate said that they could not prosecute against the agents and so he (the master) must be held responsible.

Upon Comdr. Nowill asking for a nominal fine, the Magistrate fined defendant $50 on the first count and cautioned him on the second charge.

CAPTAIN CILTAER'S
PROUD RECORDForty Years At Sea
Without Mishap

Few sea captains in the world, and fewer still sailing along the China Coast, can boast a record of 40 years at sea such as possessed by Captain Elias Ciltær, the commander of the s.s. Tunda, which arrived in port yesterday morning from Australia.

All but five years of his life afloat has been spent in the Service of the Eastern & Australian Line, while for the past 30 years he has been sailing to and from Yokohama and Sydney, Australia. Although Captain Ciltær is an Australian by birth he prefers that country to any other in the world, and looks forward greatly to his all too brief stays in Sydney.

He has never been ship-wrecked and consequently has never been cast away on a desert island. But he has had experiences just as thrilling. No fewer than 12 babies have been born in ships under the command of Captain Ciltær, but on only one occasion has the christening of the baby taken place on board the ship as well.

"Little Equator"

This happened shortly after the war, when Captain Ciltær was taking the s.s. St. Albans, of the E. & A. Line, from London to Australia. Just as the ship was crossing the equatorial line a baby's howl was heard. The doctoring mother decided to honour the two nurses and the doctor who had attended her, and at the same time involve the name of the ship. So the baby was named Kathleen, Louise, Burnside, St. Albans Equator, in addition to the carrying the surname McGee. The captain saw little Equator a short time ago, but by then she had blossomed forth into womanhood, and she did not seem to share her mother's enthusiasm for keeping memory alive.

Captain Ciltær served throughout the war in ships and carried many hundreds of Australian troops to the various fronts.

SAFEGUARDING OF
CHINESE LOANSLondon Committee
WelcomedMOVE FOLLOWS UNSETTLING
ECONOMIC NEWS

London, Yesterday.

Referring to the appointment of a special committee in London to protect the interests of bondholders of the Chinese Government Railway and other loans by the Bank of England, the City Editor of The Times says: "Numerous holders of Chinese securities in this country will welcome the appointment, under such influential auspices, of a committee to look after their interests. In fact some bondholders who became restless owing to the fall in the Shanghai exchange have recently suggested the advisability of some action being taken to protect their position."

The Financial News understands that the formation of the committee was due to the unsettling news regarding economic and financial affairs. Since the inauguration of President Roosevelt's silver policy crisis has followed crisis in China. The committee will not concern itself with any possibilities regarding trade debts, but solely with the bond position. The committee represents all the major foreign bond investment interests. As far as is known no steps have been taken to form similar committees in New York or Europe, but possibly they will follow London's lead.

CITY CIRCLES DISTURBED
Later: The Bank of England's bondholders' committee is welcomed by City circles, but they regret that the first fruits of the Leith-Ross Mission are anticipated to be worsened financial difficulties for China. It is pointed out that hitherto the market in Chinese loans has not been disturbed by the exchange.

Chinese interests are again drawing attention to the belief of the existence of a powerful group of Chinese speculators who are able to manipulate the market. It is pointed out that this would effectively wreck the Chinese hopes of raising the much needed loan for economic development.—Reuter. (Earlier Cables on Page 15)

RAOUL CANAVARRO LEAVES FOR SHANGHAI

Among the passengers who left the Colony yesterday morning for Shanghai by the s.s. President Hoover was Mr. R. D. C. (Raoul) Canavarro, the Shanghai professional lawn tennis player, who was recently seen in exhibition games in the Colony together with Henri Cochet, the famous French ace, and Francisco Aragon, the Philippines professional champion.

DANCE AT CHINA FLEET CLUB

A successful dance, organised by the ship's company of H.M.S. Tamar, was held in the China Fleet Club last night. If sufficient support is forthcoming it is hoped to make these dances a fortnightly event. The popular band of the Lincolnshire Regiment provided the music last night, while Corporal Dubory, dance secretary of H.M.S. Tamar, was Master of Ceremonies.

States and the Congressional delegates to the Philippines Inauguration ceremonies will be present.

SOUTH CHINA LUCKY TO SECURE POINT

Leung In-chen and Yu Hing-yuen formed a strong rearguard, buckling fearlessly and kicking strongly at the first opportunity, while Pau Ka-ping was a cool and alert custodian and cleared many difficult situations with seeming ease.

The intermediate line had no time to feel their forwards, being solely on the defensive, and Lee Kuan and Henry Young lent valuable aid to a much harassed defence. Lim Tak-po was not seen at his best in the pivotal berth, often being badly out of position, but he did effectively check Sullivan, the Fusilier leader, who had barely a chance of getting by throughout the game.

Tsang's Failure

George Tsang did not have much success as leader of the Chinese forwards, upsetting many of the clever moves exploited by the others, through slowness and poor control. The inside men were very fast, Lai Shui-wing being especially hard to check. Most of the danger to the Fusilier charge came from Lee Shek-yau during the opening exchanges, and the left-winger sent over many perfect centres, but the smallness of the Chinese forwards was always a handicap when the ball was in the air.

The game opened with a swift and perfectly executed raid by South China, and from Young Shui-yick's centre, Lai Shui-wing headed over Keating's head to Tsang, who in turn headed inches wide of the upright. In the next minute the same movement, which, by its speed and accuracy, left the Fusiliers standing, was carried out on the left, and from Lee Shek-yau's pass, Lai Shui-wing headed goalwards with a magnificent effort, only to see the ball narrowly miss the right-hand upright.

South China were seen in many fine approach moves during this stage, but their finish, when near goal, lacked 'punch'.

Fusilier Settle Down

Settling down, the Fusiliers took up the attack, and kept pegging away continuously up to the interval. A fine solo run by Sullivan nearly resulted in a goal, but Pau ran out and saved his shot at point-blank range.

During another raid by the soldiers, Henry Young handled in the penalty area, but Harrison ballooned the ball high over the bar from the resultant 'spot' kick!

With the score-sheet blank at the interval, the Fusiliers redoubled their efforts to score in the second period, and set up one continuous attack on the South China goal.

A fine shot by Talbot was punched out, and a second effort by the same player went just over the bar, while a well-directed drive from Keneghan was pushed over the bar by Pau Ka-ping.

The Fusiliers, on yesterday's brilliant display, are clearly a force to be reckoned with, and were very unlucky to come away with one point, though more accurate shooting might have remedied this, as the chances were there.

South China—Pau Ka-ping; Leung In-chen and Yu Hing-yuen; Lee Kuan, Lim Tak-po and H. Young; Young Shui-yick, Lai Shui-wing, G. Tsang, Cheuk Shek-kam and Lee Shek-yau. Fusiliers—Rowlands; Wheeler and Keating; Wanklyn, Keneghan and Ellis; Hughes, Harrison, Sullivan, Talbot and Roberts.

S. CHINA "A"
SHOULD BEAT
NAVY TO-DAY

Lee Wal-tong's return to the game after an interval of over 1½ years is welcomed by both European and Chinese fans, as he alone is worth watching. A master mind, he is the brains of all attacks and the deadliest marksman in China to-day.

A Doubtful Starter

Lee Kwok-wai, the South China left-half, is a doubtful starter as he is still feeling the effects of an injury sustained in the National Games last month. In case he does not play, Lau Hing-choi, who played for the Kwangtung team in the centre-half position, will play in his stead.

The Navy, who gave a splendid performance last week against the Army, have made one change in their line-up, Wolverson taking Lancashire's place at left-back.

South China, with their present attack, should win, although it will not be by a very big margin.

Athletic To Win

Another fine game should take place at Caroline Hill where the Athletic encounter the East Lancs. Following the latter's defeat at the hands of South China and recently by the Navy, indications point towards an Athletic victory.

Incidentally, Ho Kar-keung, who had not signed up with any team prior to the National Games and who was at one time rumoured to have joined South China, will be leading the Athletic attack as in former years.

The following are to-day's First Division teams:
South China "A"—Wong Wing; Lee Tin-sang and Tam Kong-pak; Leung Wing-chui, Wong Moo-shan and Lee Kwok-wai; Tso Kwai-shing, Fung King-cheong, Lee Wai-long Ip Pak-wah and Chan Kwai-leung.

East Lancs—Harmsworth; Swain, Steel; Gorman, Lawton, North; Mather, Smith, Sandford, Ridings and Ratcliffe.
Navy—Hayman; Nicholson, Wolverson; Clarkson, Bowars, Lobb; Dorrans, Rose, Cannell, Jones, Wearmouth.

LLOYD GEORGE
CRITICISES THE
GOVERNMENTCouncil Of Action's
Plans UpheldWASTEFUL EXPENDITURE DENOUNCED

London, Yesterday.

At the invitation of the Liberal leaders Mr. Lloyd George last night occupied one of three allotted broadcasts in the series arranged in connection with the general election, and dealt with his "New Deal" proposals, which were rejected some time ago by the Government and were afterwards endorsed by the "Council of Action for Peace and Reconstruction" set up under Mr. Lloyd George's leadership.

He said that since the war the British people had spent $1,200,000,000 in maintaining people in idleness with maintenance allowances which were less than sufficient to provide all required for full sustenance, but which even in the lifetime of the present Government had cost £400,000,000. For these gigantic sums there was nothing to show but the gradual demoralisation of those out of work. Would it not have been infinitely wiser to have expended all this money in subsidising useful work? It was a sinister reflection that throughout the last five years the average numbers of workless had been twice as large as during the preceding ten.

Mr. Lloyd George then described the schemes advocated for expenditure on housing, educational development, road improvements and reclamation and other projects. The sums now spent on doles, if devoted to these useful tasks, would bring wages to hungry households and transform the country.

Regarding international affairs, Mr. Lloyd George said that the Ministers had gone into the conference with a divided purpose and had been hopelessly outmanoeuvred by resolute and astute men. He urged the electors to vote for the candidates of any party who subscribed to the programme of the Council of Action.

The Council has published a list of nearly 400 candidates whose replies to questionnaires have "fully satisfied" it. The largest number of favourable replies are from Liberal or Labour candidates, but the list includes several Conservative and Liberal-National supporters of the Government.

ALLEGATIONS REFUTED
The Minister for Health, Sir Kingsley Wood, last night criticised references to the Government's housing record in Mr. Lloyd George's broadcast, and promised publication of the official figures, which would refute his allegation that the houses built in recent years had not been of the class needed by workers.

Sir Austin Chamberlain, in an address to the electors of West Birmingham, said: "In a difficult and anxious international situation the Government have increased the British influence, and in home affairs, have restored the country's finances, created confidence and given the necessary protection to industry in the home market."

Mr. Herbert Morrison, Minister of Transport, in a speech in South Hackney last night, put a "perfectly plain question to Mr. Chamberlain. How much more money does he propose to spend on armaments?" The Government must know what they wanted, and taxpayers should be told what they are being asked to approve.—B. W. S.

building, the same products for their finishing work in that building.

Future Intentions

The Company is of the opinion that their products are of the highest quality obtainable locally. They look forward to the time when they will be in a position to introduce to the building public other varieties of bricks, such as variously coloured bricks, glazed facing bricks etc. etc.

The works are in the capable hands of Mr. Leo Ching, Works Manager and Supervising Engineer, and his staff of technicians. Mr. Leo Ching was a Director of the former Company. Their sales office is in the 4th floor of the Bank of Canton building, 6 Des Voeux Road Central, with Mr. H. K. Lee in charge.

Other officials are: Mr. C. C. Tsang, Chief Electrical Engineer and Mr. Lo Tak-ming, Chief Engineer. Including the staff, over 120 men are employed on the works.

HONG KONG AND THE NEW TERRITORIES.—No. 179.

A FEW shrubs have been noticed in flower recently. One is Homalium laetifolium, a species which grows to form a small tree and which bears pendulous racemes of white flowers which in the distance look like catkins. There are several in the Shek O neighbourhood. This is one of those interesting plants which flower twice a year; the main flowering season is in April but again in October a second crop of flowers is produced. Melastoma candidum, a summer flowering species, still has a few flowers—large purple-pink; also the Buddha's Lamp, Mussaenda pubescens, a May-flowering species, has also been noticed in blossom. In their plant the flowers are yellow and small but one sepal in each flower enlarges considerably to form a white petal-like structure which is very conspicuous. The name Buddha's lamp has been given because of the fanciful resemblance of yellow flower and enlarged sepal to a primitive oil-lamp.

Autumn Orchids
On my way to work each day I pass a steep bank on which grow several clumps of bamboo orchids, Arundina chinensis. The bank is so steep that it is impossible for anyone to reach up to pick them and in consequence the clumps have enlarged and produce many flowers. Recently there have been as many as fifty flowers out at a time. The Bamboo Orchid, with its grasslike habit and white and bright pink flowers, is a late summer flowering species, but may be found in flower throughout the early winter months in sheltered, sunny positions.

Brown Rock Orchid
Another orchid out in profusion on the Peak is the brown rock orchid Coclogyne fimbriata. This orchid possesses a pseudo-bulb in which food and water are stored and from the apex of which arise two pointed leaves three to five inches long. At the apex of the pseudo-bulb, between the leaves, is the short inflorescence bearing one or two flowers one and a half inches in diameter. The three sepals and the two narrow lateral petals are cream coloured and so is often the lip or lower petal. In most flowers, however, the lip is yellow brown or a pale cinnamon-brown, and the two ridges which it bears on its surface are a deeper cinnamon brown. This orchid is probably the commonest epiphytic rock-orchid in Hong Kong and scores of flowers may be seen by the keen observer from Lugard Road. I suggest the name Brown Rock Orchid for this species; the flowering season is October and November.

"SOCIAL CREDIT" SUPPORTER

Dean Of Canterbury
Touring Canada

MAJOR DOUGLAS'S THEORY

New York, N.Y.—The Very Reverend Howlett Johnson, Dean of Canterbury, has arrived in New York on his way to Canada. In Canada he will travel across the continent giving lectures in support of the Social Credit theories of Major Douglas.

"As a Christian I couldn't keep quiet," he told reporters on his arrival in New York, explaining his enlistment among the supporters of Social Credit. He said that he saw in the Social Credit movement the beginnings of "a tremendous religious crusade" against poverty.

He added that with Canada and New Zealand "running a close race" to be the first to adopt the programme, other countries would "tumble over each other" to join in when they saw its success.

Even if Alberta, which has recently elected a Social Credit provincial government, should fail in its attempt to inaugurate the Social Credit programme, that would be "only a setback," he declared.—Reuter.

BATHER'S LOST TEETH

Croydon's new open-air swimming pool at Purley Way recently closed for the winter. When the water was drained off, a set of false teeth, two pairs of spectacles, and a glass eye were found at the bottom of the bath.

GRAPE-SMUGGLING IN FRANCE

Discovery Of Novel Racket

Paris.—A smuggled cargo of grapes—the import of which is forbidden owing to the plentiness of the home product—is the latest racket to come to light here.

The grapes were discovered by Customs officials in the famous Halles of Paris, and had apparently made their way from Spain into France via Belgium. A Spanish fruit importer is stated to have smuggled the fruit into the country.—Reuter.

GERMANY IMPORTS LESS FROM CHINA

Increased Exports To Far East

BIG INCREASE IN TEXTILE FIBRES AND WOOL

Berlin.—German imports from China during the first half of this year totalled 57,700,000 marks (about £2,885,000 at par) as compared with 64,400,000 marks (£3,220,000) during the same period last year, according to figures published by the Ostasiatische Rundschau here.

A striking item in the statistics reveals that while Germans last year exported artificial silk to China to the value of 900,000 marks (£45,000), she this year imported artificial silk from China to the value of about 600,000 marks (£30,000).

The paper criticises this importation. In view of Germany's shortage of raw materials, the paper says, the country might very well have done without it.

Germany imported three times as much raw textile fibres this year as she did last year. Wool and cotton imports have doubled and quadrupled. Sheep skins have also increased. Imports of tea, eggs and tobacco have declined.

German exports to China totalled 47,700,000 marks (£2,385,000) as compared with 37,800,000 (£1,890,000) last year. This increase is mainly due to the delivery of railway building material, iron and steel manufactures. German exports of textiles, dyes and bicycles have declined.—Reuter.

FINLAND'S FIRST AERODROME

Newly Completed On South-West Coast

Helsingfors.—A long-felt want has been supplied by the completion of Finland's first public aerodrome at Abo on the South-west coast.

Representatives of foreign aero-transport companies who attended the opening ceremony expressed universal satisfaction at the fact that the new aerodrome, and that at present under construction near here, would considerably facilitate the continued development of international air traffic.

Another very important feature, they stated, was that air mail communications could be maintained during the winter months.—Reuter.

KILLED BY A SLAP ON THE BACK

Toronto.—A friendly slap on the back caused the death of William Botfish, aged 65, at Toronto. According to the story told at the inquest, one of Botfish's friends slapped him on the back as a farewell gesture when leaving their home. Botfish slipped and fell, striking his head with fatal results.

FLUTTERING FANS PART IN NORMAL LIFE OF CHINA

VARIETIES AND FASHIONS

(By PHYLLIS JUBY)

SINCE Autumn has become a little more kind the fluttering of Chinese fans has slowly died away; for during the summer months a bird's eye view of China would surely disclose lines upon lines of fluttering fans. Hong Kong evidently does not boast of "warm fans." Yes, such things do exist! Says a Chinese poem:

"In the tenth moon the people of the capital turn to their warm fans."

And again, it was said of the Emperor:

"The fans of the Son of Heaven are, for the summer, of feathers; for the winter, of silk."

But at least in summer the fan is part of the equipment every ordinary Chinese. He sings in its praise:

"With thee, hot suns shall strike in vain the snow;
By thy aid gentle gales perennial blow,
Thou mov'st an autumn breeze 'neath summer skies;
Cease, and the round moon in my bosom lies."

This apparently refers to the round screen fan which, when not in use, he lays in his bosom between the folds of his robe, where it rests like a full moon. As we shall see, neither the shape, colour nor ornamentation of the Chinese fan is left simply to chance. And there are fashions, too, in Chinese fans. Each year sees some new variety, some new novelty for at least the wealthy Chinese.

Names Of The Fan

In metaphorical language the Chinese refers to his fan as the "phoenix" tail or the "jay's wing," and the formation of the character for fan, too, goes to prove that the wings of birds shared the honour with the leaves of trees of having furnished the first fans. The character is an ideographic combination made up of "feathers" beneath "a door," door standing for house: i.e. that which, made of feathers, is used within doors. Another character for fan is formed of the same word, feathers, placed above the character—also an ideograph—which stands for a female companion; in other words, a woman fanning her lord, which in days gone by was indeed one of the daily duties of the inmates of the harem.

When the fan was actually invented can only be surmised from vague records. It has been variously attributed to different heroes of olden days. One writer says that we are indebted to Hsien Yuan, who came to the throne in B.C. 2091, for this boon; another attributes it to Wu Wang, first ruler of the Chow dynasty, more than 1,000 years later; some decide upon the days of the Emperor Shun, B.C. 2255.

However that may be, from very early days every large city in China has had its own characteristic fan; or else there is something in make, colour or ornamentation to distinguish the fan of a particular district. Black fans are unpopular all through China and are avoided on the strength of the proverb, "Proximity to evil makes a man red, to ink, black." Black fans with lacquer handles are, however, made in Canton for the benefit of foreigners.

Types Of Fans

The large palm-leaf fan is the cheapest and most breeze-compelling but, unhappily, it is not very portable. The Chinese favours this type in their tea-shops and eating-houses and it is always seen in their guest-chambers; but the folding fan, occupying little space and opening into a smooth surface well adapted for decoration, is most generally used. It is well-known that even the Chinese vagabond loves to rest his eye upon some gaily-coloured flower or spray of bamboo! These fans are usually made of paper or of silk and the handle, though often of ivory or sandalwood, is as a rule made of the cheap and durable bamboo. Besides the large non-folding feather fan, generally used in Europe as a fire-screen, some fine specimens of the folding fan are also seen in zashans, which, on being opened, show beautifully painted birds, butterflies or sprays of flowers; kingfishers' feathers and beetles' wings, too, are used to form these fans.

The number of ribs in a folding fan is not left to chance either. Sixteen is the standard number, but in some districts they have more, sometimes as many as thirty-two or thirty-six. Sixteen is preferred because such a fan opens into a convenient number of spaces for the writing of the poetical inscription, which, according to custom, is of a given number of lines. A fan embroidered in some quaint pattern and usually accompanied by some classical allusion is a very ordinary gift. Sometimes it is accompanied by pendants of amber, jade or ivory. Among the higher circles a white silk fan of narrow frame is considered the height of elegance. On this is painted some charming flower or landscape and a verse, most often signed by the author.

Origins Of Fan-Poems

The fashion for writing verse upon a fan was first introduced by Lady Pan, who was for a long time the favourite of the Emperor who ruled China from B.C. 82 to B.C. 6. When she was ultimately supplanted by a younger and more beautiful rival she sent the Emperor a silken fan on which was inscribed these lines:

"O fair white silk, fresh from the weaver's loom,
Clear as the frost, bright as the winter moon,
See! friendship fashions out of thee a fan,
Round as the moon shines in heaven above,
At home, abroad, a close companion thou,
Stirring at every move the grateful gale,
And yet I fear, ah me! that autumn chills,
Cooling the dying summer's torrid rage,
Will see thee laid neglected on the shelf,
All thought of bygone days, like them, bygone."

The practical Chinese sometimes have maps of some great city like Peking or Canton painted on their fans, to be used as guides. Another ingenious and curious fan known as the "broken fan" has the advantage of being able to show two pictures. At first sight it appears to be a simple folding fan and on being opened the usual way it discloses nothing strange. Opened the reverse way, however, the whole fan seems to fall to pieces, each bone with the part attached to it being separated from the others.

A Japanese Fan

The well-known "dagger fan" too consists of an elegant imitation of a common folding fan; only this is in lacquer and is really a sheath containing within its attractive exterior a deadly blade, short and sharp. This was invented by the Japanese and its importation into China has always been strictly forbidden. But dagger fans have periodically been introduced into Canton and other of the large seaport towns and have even been manufactured by the enterprising Cantonese.

The ordinary fan plays a big role in Chinese decorative art. Besides being the vehicle of both poetry and painting, it is itself introduced into designs of all kinds. The outline of the fan is often used on the walls to contain pictures; it is painted as if an open fan had simply been nailed to the spot.

It is always alluded to in picturesque terms: sometimes it is a "strike the butterfly" or a "call the wind," or a "screen the face." It is also most aptly called a "change of season" from its power of cooling the person fanned.

Using "One Club" Tactics...

(By Lieut.-Col. H. M. BEASLEY)

AMONG the queries I have received recently there are several which refer to the "One Club" Tactics, and incidentally a book written by Mr. H. Ingram entitled the "Ingram One Club, or Simplified Bridge," in which he sets forth the uses and advantages of these tactics.

From my own experience—and I have played these tactics in their various forms—I have come to the conclusion that their success depends to a very large extent upon complete agreement between partners as to the action to be taken upon the various situations which can arise when the opponents intervene.

Mr. Ingram maintains that: "Whatever claims may be put forward on behalf of the Strong Two or the Two Club as forcing bids, apply with greater reason the Ingram One Club. It should be obvious that the ideal forcing bid, which compels a response or responses from partner, is one in as low a denomination as possible to give more scope for the exchange of information between partners."

In this respect the Ingram One Club has a great advantage over all others. Its particular merit (he claims) is this, "after a negative response to One Club, the bidding need not be driven up to game, a feature which in the Forcing Two is often the cause of unnecessary penalties."

First Round Bids

The One Club should not be bid except on a hand containing three quick tricks and one honour trick at least, and in addition (and this is a most important proviso) a distribution which gives some prospect of game.

Now there are many hands which contain this honour trick strength which do not fulfil the latter condition. Such a hand, for example, as:

S—A K x x

H—x x x

D—A K x x

C—x x

This contains four quick tricks, but the distribution is such as to give little hope of game, unless partner can make a voluntary bid. This hand should be bid One Spade and not One Club.

With this particular bid I am not entirely in agreement with Mr. Ingram. I would prefer to bid One Diamond and await developments.

In continuation, Mr. Ingram says: If there is no intervening bid, (this will be dealt with later), partner's response to the One Club is One Diamond, unless he holds two quick tricks—two Aces, A K two King Queens, or an Ace and King-Queen. If partner holds the requisite two quick tricks, a suit or No Trump is bid according to distribution.

It will be noticed at once that after a positive response of a suit or No Trump, showing two quick tricks (with four honour tricks at least in the opening hand), game is assured in some denomination, and possibly a slam.

Correct Response

If partner holds two quick tricks and no five-card suit, No Trumps is the correct response; a suit of less than five cards is not bid the first round.

With a five suit, the suit is preferred. Suppose, therefore, South opens One Club and West passes, North's responses for the first round on the following hands would be:

One Diamond on Spades x x x x: Hearts x x: Diamonds x x x: Clubs x x x x (a "bust").

One Diamond on Spades A. Q x x: Heart K J x x: Diamonds x x x: Clubs x x (not two quick tricks).

One No Trump on: Spades A K x x: Heart Q x x: Diamonds x x x x: Clubs x x (two quick tricks, but no five suit).

One Heart on Spades x x x x: Hearts A K x x x: Diamonds x x: Clubs x x x (a five-card suit). One Spade on: Spades J x x x x: Hearts Q x: Diamonds A K x: Clubs x x x (five-card suit and two quick tricks elsewhere).

If North's hand indicates the possibility of slam (greater strength than 2 Q T's), a jump bid of one more than necessary should be made. South One Club North holding:

S—K x x
H—K Q J 10 x x
D—x x
C—A x

should bid Two Hearts. (This immediately shows the probability of a slam).

After the negative response of One Diamond and no further force, both partners can let the bidding die at any stage. This is extremely important, as it avoids, at times, substantial penalties. So much for the first round of the bidding.

After a negative response by North—the original bidder now bids in the normal way, either in a simple overcall or a jump bid. If the jump bid is just one more than necessary to overcall it sets as a "force" and now compels partner to keep the bidding open to game.

Bidding would now develop exactly on the approach-forcing principles, except on a Two No-Trump force explained later. If it is a jump bid to one short of game, it is merely invitational and not forcing.

Really he is saying, "Partner, I cannot force but bid game if you possibly can." Naturally the original bidder's hand must be really strong (at least 5½ H.T. and good distribution) to justify a full force after a One Diamond response which may indicate a "bust."

After a positive response by North on the first round, i.e., any bid other than One Diamond, both partners must then keep the bidding open unconditionally to game, and a slam may in fact develop if either partner jumps the bidding.

Example: South One Club, North One Spade. Game must now be reached in some denomination.

South One Club, North Two Hearts. There is every likelihood of a slam, as North by his jump response shows he has considerably more than a bare 2 Q T.

(3) After an intervening bid, One objection made against the One Club is that it is so easily overbid by the opponent, particularly the lefthand opponent, and that the whole machinery of the bid can then be put out of action.

There is no greater fallacy than this provided the two partners know how to combat the intervention. More often than not it is a help and asset. Broadly speaking, the intervening bid should be ignored as far as possible by the "Clubbers."

JAPANESE ART ON VIEW

Exhibition Opened At Komor's

MASTERLY TECHNIQUE DISPLAYED

Western realism and Eastern delicacy are combined most cleverly in the excellent exhibit of Japanese water-colours now on display at Messrs. Komor & Komor's Art Galleries. Semi-annually outstanding examples of Japanese water-colours are brought to this city in order to enable local residents to acquire originals of representative artists.

All display evidence of the mastery developed in this particular medium by Japan in the past three or four decades and exemplify a brush technique that may easily be the despair of many western artists.

Particularly is the work of Terrauchi acknowledged to be supreme among the painting of those who have achieved a supremacy in depicting Japanese landscapes and seascapes with amazing power and effect.

Occasionally Terrauchi has departed from his usual style to approximate a feeling close to that attained by the French impressionists. The few studies reflecting this sensitiveness, however, seem to lack the sincerity typical of the artist in his favourite subjects.

His treatment of water is striking. A mistiness oftentimes envelops his forms, without in any way sacrificing the typically Japanese susceptibility to transparency.

Other artists, well known from former exhibits, like Ishida, Kobayashi, Asai, etc., are again well represented. The one new man, Makino, has a style of his own and his pictures are admired by many art lovers. Prices this year are much lower, and small pictures sell for as little as $1.50.

An added attraction to this year's Exhibition will be the presentation of a $100 merchandise order to someone at the display. Komor's welcome visitors and time spent there is well spent.

FALSE STATEMENT CHARGE

At Glasgow Central Police Court recently Samuel Shaw Coburn was remanded charged with maliciously representing to police officers that on September 28 while crossing the bridge at Moffat ravine, he observed a tall man alight from a car and throw a parcel or bundle over the parapet. This statement was said to have caused police to devote time and service in investigations.

PRIMO CARNERA BEATS NEUSEL ON T.K.O. VERDICT

Battered German Gives Up

ITALIAN MAN MOUNTAIN WINS IN FOUR ROUNDS

New York, Yesterday. Following the severe thrashing he received from Joe Louis, the "Brown Bomber," over a month ago, Primo Carnera, the Italian "Man Mountain," technically knocked out Walter Neusel, of Germany, in the fourth round of their scheduled 10-round contest here last night.

After four fast and furious rounds, Neusel, who had a big gash over his right eye, caused by a stinging left sustained in the fourth round, gave up.

Carnera won every round, swinging with both lefts and rights to Neusel's head, and also constantly connecting with left-jabs.

Walter Neusel was in a sorry condition at the finish. Neusel, who had been badly battered by Steve Hamas in a 16-round contest in Hamburg.

His two main triumphs in Europe were recorded against Jack Peterson of England, who was technically knocked out in both his fights against the German, thus eliminating him as a contender for the world's heavyweight championship.

VIOLENT ANTI-BRITISH SCENES IN ITALY

The fashionable firm of haberdashers known as the "Prince of Wales" has now been re-named the "Prince of Piedmont," while the restaurant, the "Golden Gate," and the "American Ice-cream Soda Parlour" will also henceforth bear Italian names. The British royal arms, which adorned the facade of an English chemist's store in one of the principal streets, has been discreetly veiled.

PRESS HELPS AGITATORS
Meanwhile the agitation is gaining ground in the press and public to prevent the use of the English and also the French languages in conversation between Italians, as well as the purchase of foreign newspapers by Italians. A large number of British tourists are reported to have hurriedly left the country following the recent anti-British demonstrations in Rome, Milan and Turin. Trans-Ocean Service.

FAMOUS CRICKETER PASSES

H. B. Cameron Victim Of Enteric

SOUTH AFRICAN STUMPER

Johannesburg, Yesterday. The death has occurred of H. B. Cameron, the South African wicket-keeper, from enteric. Reuter. Horace Brakenbridge Cameron, vice-captain and batsman-wicket-keeper, might have been captain of the last South African team had he not lived up to his reputation for modesty. He held the leadership in South Africa, Australia and New Zealand for two seasons, but retired in favour of Wade because he felt that his stumping and batting were quite enough for him to look after.

16 TESTS SINCE 1927
Cameron had already played under Wade when they were boys together at Hilton College, Natal. Cameron was then vice-captain of the cricket and "Rugger" elevens. He was an experienced Test player, having figured in 16 Tests since 1927, including one at Manchester two years later, in which he scored 83. Since his last visit to England he seemed to have become more serious—perhaps because he was one of the South African team selection committee—although he was still a care-free but never irresponsible hitter.

BRILLIANT STUMPER
He stumped men out with the non-chalant gesture of a smoker flicking the ash from his cigarette. He had already done something remarkable with the bat, for he and Viljoen, in a fifth-wicket partnership, made the biggest stand of the last tour when they scored 262 (Cameron 132) against Derbyshire. He was later featured in his best performance on the tour when he was undefeated for 103 against Yorkshire the Champion County, who were beaten by 123 runs. Like Wade, he was in his 30th year. He was one of the three married men of the party. He used to play baseball.

The Angliander, Sun Feng-min, is 32 years of age. He is a native of Chuchow in Anhwei. Before joining the 19th Route Army he was a machine-gunner in the Fukien provincial army.

The obscure news agency in which he was employed was established in Nanking in October 1934. The pistol he used yesterday was made in Spain and was furnished to him by Ho Pok-wang, the chief editor of the agency, who, with a director named Hu Yun-ching, is alleged to have plotted the outrage months ago.
